Westerners Seek Loyalty Oath

WASHINGTON (AP) — Western Democrats moved today to write into their 1968 Chicago convention rules a loyalty oath pledging delegates to support the party presidential nominee.

Aimed primarily at Vietnam war critics— some of whom want to dump President Johnson— the proposed pledge also would affect civil rights dissenters in the South.

California National Committeeman Eugene L. Wyman said representatives of 13 Western states, meeting in advance of the National Committee's formal ratification of the choice of Chicago for the convention site, voted unanimously to back a loyalty oath under which individual delegates would have to give their word that they would support the ticket in the general election.

This would involve a stronger pledge than previous compromises under which delegations were required to work to get the party nominees' names on the ballot in their states.

Wyman said in an interview he intends to lay this proposal before a special equal rights committee headed by Gov. Richard Hughes, of New Jersey.

National Chairman John M. Bailey predicted Johnson would be renominated unanimously at the four-day extravaganza opening Aug. 25.

In a fight talk today, Bailey summoned the Democrats to back Johnson's Vietnam efforts "to prevent World War III."

The national chairman said while Johnson takes "the only position that makes sense" on Vietnam, most Republicans "are busy trying to win the 1968 election" by criticizing his actions.

In a thinly veiled reference to Democratic dissenters, Bailey told the Democrats: "Let's defend the President of the United States against those of his critics who are utterly unreasonable."

Bailey spoke out in a report prepared for a formal national committee session.

Bailey scoffed at public opinion polls which generally show a majoris not satisfied with the way Johnson is handling the war.

Asserting that the President's decisions "will be vindicated by history," the national chairman told the Democrats they must not be stampeded by the polls.

Bailey said Republicans haven't yet had to spell out proposals. He scorched Michigan Gov. George Romney, California Gov. Ronald Reagan, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois for "trying to dupe us into believing they can do both more or less in Vietnam at the same time."

The Democratic chairman did not mention New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, a prospective GOP favorite son who has generally supported Johnson's basic Vietnam policies. Bailey has made it clear to associates he regards Rockefeller as probably the toughest opponent the Republicans could put up against Johnson.

Bailey echoed throughout his speech the hard line Johnson took at a $1,000-a-plate Saturday night Salute to the President dinner. Johnson challenged his critics to offer a viable alternative to his Vietnam course.

The choice of Chicago for next year's convention came after Miami Beach, Fla., and Houston, Tex., made opposing bids.

Miami Beach, which will have the Republican nominating convention starting Aug. 5, turned up $50,000 short of the $750,000 cash and $150,000 in fringe benefits offered by Chicago.

Houston had been ruled out by Johnson because of an intra party fight in the state. The site committee found also that Houston didn't have enough actually available hotel rooms.

Florida apparently was not to Johnson's liking because it houses headline-making Republican Gov. Claude Kirk Jr.

Party leaders also want to go where the big electoral votes are. Illinois, with 26, currently is classified in the doubtful column for the election.

Lonborg Last Hope For Sox

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The desperate Boston Red Sox sent Jim "One-Hit" Lonborg and a revised line-up against the St. Louis Cardinals today in an attempt to stay alive in the fifth World Series game.

The St. Louis Cardinals blanked the Boston Red Sox, 6-0, Sunday to run up a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven Series. A St. Louis victory today would end the Series.

Lonborg, a 22-game winner, pitched a one-hitter in the second game, which the Red Sox won, 5-0, in Boston. Card Manager Red Schoendienst assigned lefthander Steve Carlton, who had a 14-9 record in season play, to start for St. Louis.

Red Sox Manager Dick Williams said if his team won today, Gary Waslewski would start the sixth game in Boston. Schoendienst was considering either Dick Hughes, the second-game loser, or Nelson Briles, winner of game No. 3 in St. Louis.

Hoffa Retrial Bid Rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court turned down today a bid for a new trial by James R. Hoffa, imprisoned president of the Teamsters Union.

The bid was based on two claims: (1) that a "spy" for the Justice Department and the FBI was present when Hoffa's attorneys planned strategy for his 1964 jury tampering trial; (2) that important evidence was suppressed at his trial with the "connivance or at least with the acquiescence of United States marshals."

Both claims were rejected by the U.S. Circuit Court in Cincinnati last May when it upheld a ruling by the U.S. District Court at Chattanooga denying Hoffa a new trial. The Supreme Court made no comment in declining to hear Hoffa's appeal from the Circuit Court decision.

Hoffa was convicted in Chattanooga in March 1964 of charges of tampering with jurors at his Taft-Hartley conspiracy trial in Nashville in 1962.

Court Refuses to Rehear Walker Case

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The Supreme Court refused today to reconsider its decision of last term throwing out a $500,000 judgment former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker had won against The Associated Press in a Texas state court.

Another MIG Airfield Bombed

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Navy fighter-bombers struck a North Vietnamese MIG airfield near Haiphong Sunday, the sixth installation hit in five straight days of raids on targets once ruled by the Pentagon as out of bounds for U.S. warplanes. The strike that dug wide craters into the French-built jet strip at Cat Bi left untouched only two bases in the North capable of launching MIG interceptors.

In the ground war, an American platoon fought out of a surrounded position in rainswept jungles and Communist mortarmen poured fire on the major Army-Navy base in the Mekong Delta.

Nearby in the delta, a 50-year-old Buddhist nun burned herself to death, a Saigon newspaper said, the second suicide by fire in a week during the drive by militant Buddhists to force the government to abandon a charter recognizing a moderate faction in the church.

The Cat Bi strike damaged a Soviet built liaison plane, but the U.S. Command said the carrier-based jets found no MIGs on the ground as they flew in "virtually unopposed."

The raid was part of a maximum U.S. effort to cripple the North before the monsoon rains start this month and cut flying time by as much as 75 per cent. Since Wednesday, U.S. planes have also hit three bridges on supply routes from Red China and two fuel dumps, all previously barred as too sensitive to attack.

The two major MIG bases still on the forbidden list are the Gia Am installation and the big Phuc Yen base, which houses the North Vietnamese air force's major operations center and serves as headquarters for the air defense command. Both are near Hanoi.

The Communist Chinese New China News Agency claimed that 10 U.S. planes were shot down over North Vietnam Saturday. The U.S. Command said three planes were downed and four airmen missing.

In the jungle battle, the U. S. forces reported 17 dead and four wounded.

Twenty-five sailors and three soldiers were wounded when the Red mortars ripped into the Mekong base at Dong Tam, crowded with river assault boats returned from a combat sweep.

The heaviest fighting reported took place Sunday when a company of paratroopers from the 101st Airborne Division ran into about 150 North Vietnamese regulars in the coastal foothills of Quang Tin Province about 300 miles north of Saigon.

With rain pouring down, there was no hope of air support. Even the artillery had to be called off when the paratroops and North Vietnamese locked in hand-to-hand fighting.

In the confusion of battle an American platoon of fewer than 50 men was cut off and surrounded by screaming Red troopers. The rest of the company fought its way hand-to-hand through the North Vietnamese to relieve the platoon.

A field report said paratroopers with light wounds refused to leave the battle and presumably were not counted in the casualty report. The North Vietnamese— probably members of the well-trained 2nd Division— lost 60 dead, the report said.

The mortar attack on the Mekong Delta base at Dong Tam came before dawn today. The 82mm shells were evidently concentrated on the naval support installations on the shore of the Mekong River. Military headquarters reported only light damage and there was no report of hits on the river fleet of assault draft that includes armored monitors, tank landing ships and smaller assault boats.

The base, 50 miles south of Saigon, is surrounded by territory largely under Viet Cong influence and has been shelled six times since the U. S. troops moved in last January.

The U. S. Command also disclosed that a brigade of the 1st Air Cavalry Division has been shifted into the five northern provinces of the 1st Corps area below the 17th parallel demilitarized zone.

This puts four Army brigades into the southern part of the zone, which was previously held by U. S. Marines. The Marines were recently shifted farther north to meet the North Vietnamese threat along the DMZ, where the Red command can call upon some 35,000 troops.

Hahs Given Ovation for Saving Life

Three members of the Sikeston auxiliary police returned Sunday from a two-day convention of the Missouri Auxiliary Police Association in Hannibal.

They were James Hahs, commander; Lloyd Treece, assistant commander; Jerry Koch and Richard Couvion, auxiliary patrolmen.

Commander Hahs was given a standing ovation for saving the life of the 14-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pointer, who fell into a drainage ditch at the east city limits more than a year ago.

The child was revived through mouth to mouth resuscitation.

Train Strikes Auto

An automobile driven by Walter L. Beck, 39, Matthews, was struck in the rear by a box car being connected to other boxcars of a Missouri Pacific train at 9:13 a.m. today at the Scott County Milling Co. crossing off West Malone.

The train was being driven at the time by William C. Porter, 29, Poplar Bluff. No injuries resulted. Porter told police that the boxcar was occupying half of the crossing before the car attempted to cross. No summons was issued. The rear of the automobile was damaged.

In other activity, George Thomas, Sikeston, was charged with public intoxication Saturday on Felker Street.

Paul C. Luber, 103 Salcedo road, was charged with careless and imprudent driving at 10 p.m. Saturday on Pine Street.

Tommy L. Dover, 209 Moore, was charged with careless and imprudent driving for speeding at 1 a.m. Sunday on East Malone.

James A. Robison, 307 Virginia, was charged by police at 2 a.m. Sunday with operating a motor vehicle with an improper exhaust. He was stopped on South Main.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, 519 William, reported to police Saturday that her son's red 22" stingray bicycle with a banana seat was stolen from her home Friday night.

Court to Review Draft Card Burning Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court announced today it will decide whether the 1965 federal law that forbids the burning of draft cards is constitutional.

At the same time the court will decide if a draft card burner can be sent to prison for not possessing his card.

The Justice Department had asked the court to hear the case after the U.S. Circuit Court in Boston ruled unanimously that the 1965 law abridges free speech and is therefore unconstitutional.

Two U.S. circuit Courts — in New York City and St. Louis— have upheld the ban on draft card mutiliation, which Congress added to the Selective Service law in 1965. And last February the Supreme Court refused to review the ruling by the federal court in New York.

However, the decision by the U.S. Circuit Court in Boston in April put the federal appeals courts in direct conflict.

Seven Killed in Headon Collision

RECTOR, Ark. (AP) - Two Missourians and five Arkansas youths died Saturday night when their cars smashed together on Arkansas 1 about three miles east of this northeastern Arkansas town.

Victims of the wreck were Cad C. Nations, 57, Kennett, Mo.; Nations' wife, Aslee, 56; Adrian K. Renard, 16, Piggott; Brenda Dawson, 17, Rector; Brenda Nations, 18, Rector; Denver Huckaby Jr., 22, Rockford, Ill.; and Mark E. Todd, 18, Pollard.

The five from Arkansas all were riding with Renard. Police said Mr. and Mrs. Nations were not related to the Nations girl from Rector.

Three other youths in Renard's car were injured in the head-on colision.

Man Killed, Car Misses Curve

A 43-year-old Malden man was killed and an Advance man was injured in a one-car accident on Missouri 114 at the junction with U. S. 60 near Morehouse at 6:45 a.m. today.

Killed was Avery Little. Douglas Sanders, 32, of Advance, sustained chest injuries and was taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital.

The highway patrol said the speeding car missed a curve, ran into a ditch, jumped 45 feet in the air, hit the ground and overturned. Little was thrown through the windshield.

Troopers said they have been unable to determine who was driving the car.

The body was taken to Watkins and Sons Funeral Home at Dexter.

Four highway accidents Saturday and Sunday resulted in one injury and the arrest of one driver.

Jack Sartin, 28, Cairo, driver of a 1966 Ford, is in the Missouri Delta Community hospital, suffering from head and body injuries after a crash on highway 60, two miles east of Sikeston, Sunday at 11:15 p.m.

He ran into the rear of a 1961 Ford, driven by Atanacio Alonzo, 29, Lockhart, Tex. He was given a summons for careless and reckless driving while drinking.

The highway patrol reported that the owner of a wrecked 1958 Oldsmobile on Interstate 55 south of Sikeston Saturday night has not been located. No accident information was available.

Saturday at 7 p.m. on highway 62 in Miner, a 1956 Chevrolet, driven by Henry Bruce, 59, Sikeston, attempted to make a left turn, when he was struck in the rear by a 1964 Dodge, driven by Walter Griffin, 60, also of Sikeston.

Griffin was given a summons for careless and imprudent driving.

A third rearend collision occured in Miner 50 minutes after the Bruce-Griffen crash when a 1966 Ford, driven by Doy Bell, 55, Bell City, slowed. A 1962 Dodge, driven by Velma Crader, 33, Sikeston, ran into the rear of the Bell car when its brakes failed.

In a signle car accident Saturday morning in East Prairie, a 1965 Plymouth, driven by Gearl Brown, 21, East Prairie, ran through an intersection and into a parked 1960 Buick owned by H. L. Lewis, East Prairie, in a yard.

10 Injured Receive Care

Ten persons were treated Saturday and Sunday for injuries in the Missouri Delta Community hospital emergency room:

Roma Scroggins, Matthews, caught hand in door; Lawrence Eaves, Essex, cut on lip; Charles T. Eaton, Jr., injured arm during physical education at school; Timothy Halter, Oran, cut on scalp when ran into pole; John R. Felker, cut finger in a cash register; Jim Purdy, Morley, cut leg on soft drink bottle; William Davis, treated for insect bite; Bruce Wolferding, injured leg while playing football; J. W. Jones, injured hip when he fell off tractor; Glenn Smith, caught right elbow between fanbelt and radiator.

Steel Strikers Hold Conference

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Representatives met today to try to find an end to the violent, two-month steel haulers strike. Gov. Raymond P. Shafer of Pennsylvania called for an end to "a campaign of terror" on the highways.

"This conference is designed to find the facts, put them in proper perspective and furnish the answer," Shafer said.

"No group, however just their claims might be, has the right to subject their fellow citizens to a campaign of terror," he said.

More than 40 people — representatives of seven states, the striking independent truckers, the Teamsters Union and the trucking companies — met at Shafer's invitation.

Site Set For Burial Of Attlee

LONDON (AP) -- The ashes of Clement Attlee, father of the British welfare state, will be placed in Westminster Abbey, burial place of the nation's sovereigns and statesmen.

Attlee, prime minister from 1945 to 1951, died Sunday in a London hospital after a long illness. He was 84.

No date has been scheduled for the cremation but Nov. 3 has been tentatively set for the Westminster Abbey service.

Tributes continued to pour in from all over the world today. India's President Zakir Husain sent a message of condolence to Queen Eliazabeth II praising the man under whose administration India received her independence.

The Queen said Attlee "made an enduring place for himself in the history of our country and the Commonwealth. In war and peace he served his sovereigns well."

Prime Minister Harold Wilson, who quit Attlee's Cabinet over a rearmament dispute in 1951, called his former leader "one of the greatest men of our generation. He brought a quiet and modest greatness to our public affairs."

President Johnson said Attlee "was a strong defender and champion of democracy and freedom. As a political leader and a creative humanitarian, he earned the admiration and respect of the entire world."

Attlee was the first elected to Parliament in 1922 and was leader of the Labor party from 1935 to 1955, the longest tenure in the party's history. In 1940 he became Winston Churchill's deputy prime minister in a wartime coalition Cabinet.

In July 1945, Attlee led Labor to a sweeping election landslide seen as a mandate for domestic reconstruction in war-torn Britain. During his six years in office and insurance plans, nationalized the steel industry, railways, the Bank of England, the gas industry and public transport.

The labor party lost to Churchill's Conservatives in 1951. Attlee remained party leader until a stroke forced his retirement four years later.

He was elevated to the House of Lords as the first Earl Attlee, a title now inherited by his 40-year-old son. He is also survived by three daughters. Attlee's wife of 42 years died in 1964.

Drills and Demonstrations Will Set Apart National Fire Prevention Week

Fire drills and demonstrations begin at 7 p.m. tonight on the old south grade school lot by firemen in conjunction with National Fire Prevention Week.

Open house will be held from 9 a.m. until 10 p.m. daily today through Friday at fire station 1, 405 West Malone.

Displays of fire fighting equipment will be shown.

Fire prevention literature, coffee, doughnuts and soft drinks will be given visitors. Door prizes include a new banana seat bicycle, a pressure cooker, an electric knife, a clock radio, fire extinguishers and a mixer.

Thirty or more free children's movie tickets good at the Malone Theater will be given to the persons who best complete a home safety check list.

The list is designed to help residents check appliances, and rooms in the house and garage for potential fire hazards. The list must be taken home, completed and mailed to the fire department to be eligible for the tickets.

Demonstrations coordinating rescue and fire extinguishing will be conducted at 7 p.m. tonight through Friday on the South grade school lot.

A wood frame house has been constructed for the demonstrations. It will be filled with cardboard boxes and will contain a dummy.

The exercise will begin when the building is purposely ignited. The fire department will then be notified by telephone and will rush to the scene.

Two firemen wearing asbestos fire protective suits will enter the house first and rescue the dummy. The fire will then be extinguished.

Other demonstrations will be conducted nightly outside the building on the lot. Spectators will be shown how to handle gasoline and natural gas fires.

Drills will be conducted at the elementary schools and at junior high school, this week, Fire Chief L. D. Ramsey said. In each drill, the fire department will measure the amount of time required to evacuate the schools.

Hahs Given Ovation for Saving Life

They were James Hahs, commander; Lloyd Treece, assistant commander; Jerry Koch and Richard Couvion, auxiliary patrolmen.

Commander Hahs was given a standing ovation for saving the life of the 14-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pointer, who fell into a drainage ditch at the east city limits more than a year ago.

The child was revived through mouth to mouth resuscitation.

Train Strikes Auto

An automobile driven by Walter L. Beck, 39, Matthews, was struck in the rear by a box car being connected to other boxcars of a Missouri Pacific train at 9:13 a.m. today at the Scott County Milling Co. crossing off West Malone.

The train was being driven at the time by William C. Porter, 29, Poplar Bluff. No injuries resulted. Porter told police that the boxcar was occupying half of the crossing before the car attempted to cross. No summons was issued. The rear of the automobile was damaged.

In other activity, George Thomas, Sikeston, was charged with public intoxication Saturday on Felker Street.

Paul C. Luber, 103 Salcedo road, was charged with careless and imprudent driving at 10 p.m. Saturday on Pine Street.

Tommy L. Dover, 209 Moore, was charged with careless and imprudent driving for speeding at 1 a.m. Sunday on East Malone.

James A. Robison, 307 Virginia, was charged by police at 2 a.m. Sunday with operating a motor vehicle with an improper exhaust. He was stopped on South Main.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, 519 William, reported to police Saturday that her son's red 22" stingray bicycle with a banana seat was stolen from her home Friday night.

Court to Review Draft Card Burning Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court announced today it will decide whether the 1965 federal law that forbids the burning of draft cards is constitutional.

At the same time the court will decide if a draft card burner can be sent to prison for not possessing his card.

The Justice Department had asked the court to hear the case after the U.S. Circuit Court in Boston ruled unanimously that the 1965 law abridges free speech and is therefore unconstitutional.

Two U.S. circuit Courts — in New York City and St. Louis—have upheld the ban on draft card mutiliation, which Congress added to the Selective Service law in 1965. And last February the Supreme Court refused to review the ruling by the federal court in New York.

However, the decision by the U.S. Circuit Court in Boston in April put the federal appeals courts in direct conflict.

Seven Killed in Headon Collision

RECTOR, Ark. (AP) - Two Missourians and five Arkansas youths died Saturday night when their cars smashed together on Arkansas 1 about three miles east of this northeastern Arkansas town.

Victims of the wreck were Cad C. Nations, 57, Kennett, Mo.; Nations' wife, Aslee, 56; Adrian K. Renard, 16, Piggott; Brenda Dawson, 17, Rector; Brenda Nations, 18, Rector; Denver Huckaby Jr., 22, Rockford, Ill.; and Mark E. Todd, 18, Pollard.

The five from Arkansas all were riding with Renard. Police said Mr. and Mrs. Nations were not related to the Nations girl from Rector.

Three other youths in Renard's car were injured in the head-on colision.

Man Killed, Car Misses Curve

A 43-year-old Malden man was killed and an Advance man was injured in a one-car accident on Missouri 114 at the junction with U. S. 60 near Morehouse at 6:45 a.m. today.

Killed was Avery Little, Douglas Sanders, 32, of Advance, sustained chest injuries and was taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital.

The highway patrol said the speeding car missed a curve, ran into a ditch, jumped 45 feet in the air, hit the ground and overturned. Little was thrown through the windshield.

Troopers said they have been unable to determine who was driving the car.

The body was taken to Watkins and Sons Funeral Home at Dexter.

Four highway accidents Saturday and Sunday resulted in one injury and the arrest of one driver.

Jack Sartin, 28, Cairo, driver of a 1966 Ford, is in the Missouri Delta Community hospital, suffering from head and body injuries after a crash on highway 60, two miles east of Sikeston, Sunday at 11:15 p.m.

He ran into the rear of a 1961 Ford, driven by Atanacio Alonzo, 29, Lockhart, Tex. He was given a summons for careless and reckless driving while drinking.

The highway patrol reported that the owner of a wrecked 1958 Oldsmobile on Interstate 55 south of Sikeston Saturday night has not been located. No accident information was available.

Saturday at 7 p.m. on highway 62 in Miner, a 1956 Chevrolet, driven by Henry Bruce, 59, Sikeston, attempted to make a left turn, when he was struck in the rear by a 1964 Dodge, driven by Walter Griffin, 60, also of Sikeston.

Griffin was given a summons for careless and imprudent driving.

A third rearend collision occured in Miner 50 minutes after the Bruce-Griffen crash when a 1966 Ford, driven by Doy Bell, 55, Bell City, slowed. A 1962 Dodge, driven by Velma Crader, 33, Sikeston, ran into the rear of the Bell car when its brakes failed.

In a signle car accident Saturday morning in East Prairie, a 1965 Plymouth, driven by Gearl Brown, 21, East Prairie, ran through an intersection and into a parked 1960 Buick owned by H. L. Lewis, East Prairie, in a yard.

10 Injured Receive Care

Ten persons were treated Saturday and Sunday for injuries in the Missouri Delta Community hospital emergency room:

Roma Scroggins, Matthews, caught hand in door; Lawrence Eaves, Essex, cut on lip; Charles T. Eaton, Jr., injured arm during physical education at school; Timothy Halter, Oran, cut on scalp when ran into pole; John R. Felker, cut finger in a cash register; Jim Purdy, Morley, cut leg on soft drink bottle; William Davis, treated for insect bite; Bruce Wolferding, injured leg while playing football; J. W. Jones, injured hip when he fell off tractor; Glenn Smith, caught right elbow between fanbelt and radiator.

Steel Strikers Hold Conference

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Representatives met today to try to find an end to the violent, two-month steel haulers strike. Gov. Raymond P. Shafer of Pennsylvania called for an end to "a campaign of terror" on the highways.

"This conference is designed to find the facts, put them in proper perspective and furnish the answer," Shafer said.

"No group, however just their claims might be, has the right to subject their fellow citizens to a campaign of terror," he said.

More than 40 people — representatives of seven states, the striking independent truckers, the Teamsters Union and the trucking companies — met at Shafer's invitation.

Site Set For Burial Of Attlee

LONDON (AP) -- The ashes of Clement Attlee, father of the British welfare state, will be placed in Westminster Abbey, burial place of the nation's sovereigns and statesmen.

Attlee, prime minister from 1945 to 1951, died Sunday in a London hospital after a long illness. He was 84.

No date has been scheduled for the cremation but Nov. 3 has been tentatively set for the Westminster Abbey service.

Tributes continued to pour in from all over the world today. India's President Zakir Husain sent a message of condolence to Queen Eliazabeth II praising the man under whose administration India received her independence.

The Queen said Attlee "made an enduring place for himself in the history of our country and the Commonwealth. In war and peace he served his sovereigns well."

Prime Minister Harold Wilson, who quit Attlee's Cabinet over a rearmament dispute in 1951, called his former leader "one of the greatest men of our generation. He brought a quiet and modest greatness to our public affairs."

President Johnson said Attlee "was a strong defender and champion of democracy and freedom. As a political leader and a creative humanitarian, he earned the admiration and respect of the entire world."

Attlee was the first elected to Parliament in 1922 and was leader of the Labor party from 1935 to 1955, the longest tenure in the party's history. In 1940 he became Winston Churchill's deputy prime minister in a wartime coalition Cabinet.

In July 1945, Attlee led Labor to a sweeping election landslide seen as a mandate for domestic reconstruction in war-torn Britain. During his six years in office and insurance plans, nationalized the steel industry, railways, the Bank of England, the gas industry and public transport.

The labor party lost to Churchill's Conservatives in 1951. Attlee remained party leader until a stroke forced his retirement four years later.

He was elevated to the House of Lords as the first Earl Attlee, a title now inherited by his 40-year-old son. He is also survived by three daughters. Attlee's wife of 42 years died in 1964.

Drills and Demonstrations Will Set Apart National Fire Prevention Week

Fire drills and demonstrations begin at 7 p.m. tonight on the old south grade school lot by firemen in conjunction with National Fire Prevention Week.

Open house will be held from 9 a.m. until 10 p.m. daily today through Friday at fire station 1, 405 West Malone.

Displays of fire fighting equipment will be shown.

Fire prevention literature, coffee, doughnuts and soft drinks will be given visitors. Door prizes include a new banana seat bicycle, a pressure cooker, an electric knife, a clock radio, fire extinguishers and a mixer.

Thirty or more free children's movie tickets good at the Malone Theater will be given to the persons who best complete a home safety check list.

The list is designed to help residents check appliances, and rooms in the house and garage for potential fire hazards. The list must be taken home, completed and mailed to the fire department to be eligible for the tickets.

Demonstrations will be conducted coordinating rescue and fire extinguishing at 7 p.m. tonight through Friday on the South grade school lot.

A wood frame house has been constructed for the demonstrations. It will be filled with cardboard boxes and will contain a dummy.

The exercise will begin when the building is purposely ignited. The fire department will then be notified by telephone and will rush to the scene.

Two firemen wearing asbestos fire protective suits will enter the house first and rescue the dummy. The fire will then be extinguished.

Other demonstrations will be conducted nightly outside the building on the lot. Spectators will be shown how to handle gasoline and natural gas fires.

Drills will be conducted at the elementary schools and at junior high school, this week, Fire Chief L. D. Ramsey said. In each drill, the fire department will measure the amount of time required to evacuate the schools.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

EDITORIALS GET THINGS DONE

Newspaper editorials get things done. At times, I've wondered what. But now, I think I know.

They get people to think.

They may think the editor is an idiot. The Atlanta Constitution is rich with readers who hold that opinion. In order to arrive at it, however, they must (1) read his unsatisfactory argument, and then (2) justify their own. This is a painful experience on both counts, which may account for the soreness they exhibit in letters to the editor. But they have had to think about the subject.

And the longer I live, the more I believe the value of an editorial is not so much to carry the day, to convince everybody, or to comfort the good and convert the evil.

To achieve those goals the average editor would have to be a lot smarter than he is.

The true and lasting value lies in getting people to think for themselves, to talk and to argue, and finally to decide whatever they want to decide. The process of thought may have adjusted their decision some small distance toward the side of right, wherever that is.

"I guess a man's job," William Percy's father told him, "is to make the world a better place to live in, so far as he is able -- always remembering the results will be infinitesimal -- and to attend to his own soul."

An editorial is, of itself, no better than the incentive it provides the reader to attend to his own soul, I think. Whether the editorial opinion itself is accepted is secondary to that. The people will find their own way when they think.

The race issue in the South was editorially muffled for many years. The primary contribution of editors like Hodding Carter and Ralph McGill and Lenoir Chambers lay not so much in convincing all Southerners that segregation was wrong; they obviously failed, had that been their purpose. Primarily, they encouraged people to talk about it -- to break the muffling silence, to stop fearing discussion of it, to speak the unspeakable and think the unthinkable, and to realize it was a subject they could argue.

This breaking of silent fear, this beginning of talking and thinking, is the goal an editor shoots for in a frozen situation where minds have ceased to question. The editorial doesn't have to be right. But it does get things done.

It gets the people to think.

It is an astonishing commentary on American life that the passion for come as you are has been blunted by an amusement park.

Disneyland will have no part of the hippies. It also bars girls in miniskirts and young men whose hair is long enough to attract attention. The unclean are unwelcome.

The Anaheim park's success is due to maintaining a reliable atmosphere. It can't do it with the distraction offered by the presence of scummy human beings, bums or even the virtuous and well meaning, who merely get carried away by the fashion crazes of the time.

This will be surprising news to high school students, whom frequently associate personal freedom with the false notion that school authorities cannot dictate to them what they will wear to classes.

Disneyland insists on putting on its own show in its own way and its cash register rings a joyous story of continuous success to its owners.

Until reminded by Disneyland's example too few Americans have paid any attention to the environment created by surroundings, their dress, manners and conversation -- yes, even to application of soap and water.

Much is lost in slovenly dress, slothful posture, unkept appearance, dirty necks, scraggly, uncombed or unbrushed hair, crooked, dirty teeth, soiled garments and conversation to match. Many American tourists look only slightly better than a hippie.

A shapely girl looks good in a miniskirt, shorts or slacks, but, alas, too few possess the gentle contours required.

As for the middle-aged and elderly travelers, many are guaranteed to louse up the environment of any neighborhood no matter how unfamiliar.

There's Pa wearing a long billed cap, his elbow akimbo, his pot belly keeping through an open collar, short sleeves sport shirt, his shirt tail trailing in the breeze. His sports emphasize his ungainly, stooped, bow legged stance, his knobby knees and hairy, spindly legs.

Maw brings up the rear and she lends much weight to her position. Her faded hair is accentuated by a worn shawl and giant horn rimmed glasses.

She is wearing slacks. All the curves are in the wrong places as she waddles along in open toe sandals.

Her lumpy body [illegible]

As far as the atmosphere they create it would have been better if both had stayed at home.

Nothing has ever been devised that lends as much enchantment to an unattractive body as adequate cover.

Come as you are has an engaging sound but it hasn't worked out well.

Too many Americans regard it as an invitation to cast off the more attractive, dignified dress they wear at home.

The casual look often isn't good looking.

The eroded, tastelessly dressed travelers themselves contribute to the unsightly appearance of billboards, the weeds, the empty tin cans and other litter of roadside blight.

America has gone too far with "come as you are."

Some well wisher sends me this clipping from the Louisville Courier-Journal and for the fear that I'll butcher it up by comment, I'll pass it on in toto. It reads:

While the FCC is berating television for its cigarette commercials, we wish it would look into another aspect of TV ads aimed not at corrupting the youth but at demoralizing the adult. In TV commercials, nothing good happens to anyone past the age of discretion. Life not only doesn't begin at 40, it ends at 25.

Watch the people in these ads for awhile. Teenagers invariably have great, glistening teeth. Adults have dentures and denture breath. Boys switch hair grease and girls are glad. Men don't have hair. If they do, it is full of dandruff. Boys douse themselves with shaving lotion and wait to beat off the women, like traps full of cheese. Older men are happy to find something that drains all eight sinuses.

Young people have fun. Older people have nagging headaches. Young people spend all night wolfing hamburgers at amusement parks or beach parties. Older people go to a nearby movie and have to leave because their stummick is killing them. Girls have yards of blonde hair full of body and boys nuzzle it. Wives have gray hair and their husbands won't take them dancing. Men work hard and get ahead, only to have some pimply assistant tell them they have bad breath. The teen age wife makes a cup of coffee and turns her husband into a sex maniac. The older wife washes, irons, mops floors and puts up with birds on the sink, and her husband comes home with a miserable headache and takes it out on her. Girls are always washing their hair. Wives are always washing dishes.

Teen-agers wear sneakers and sandals. Adults wear support hose. Teen-agers rub each other with suntan oil. Adults rub each other with liniment. Teen-agers spent a lot of time in boats, sports cars and swimmmng pools. Adults spend their time in doctors' offices and listening to tedious insurance peddlers. Young people romp through the fields and sniff flowers. Adults get hay fever and sneeze. Young people are always at the end of a glorious evening. Adults are always at the end of their rope.

Life is fun, fun for the young. They can laugh even with their mouths full of hair. About the only happy time for an addult is when he has an accident and the insurance company pays off. It isn't fair. Worse, we have a feeling that it's all too true.

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

The average snail's pace, science has decided, is 23 inches an hour—on a clear day and a fast track.

Nothing brings married people together like the income tax. In 1965, some 39.3 million U.S. couples filed joint returns. Only 2.8 million married people paid their taxes to Uncle Sam separately.

What kind of debris collects behind the desk drawers in business offices? A recent check by cleaners disclosed that 12 per cent had unsent Christmas cards, 10 per cent had shoe polishing gear, 19 per cent had miscellaneous business cards, and nearly 100 per cent had forgotten medicines and personal photos.

How well off is the ordinary Russian after 50 years of communism? According to Eugene Lyons in "Workers' Paradise Lost," a Soviet workman has to pay four months' salary for a washing machine, then wait a year for the machine to be delivered.

Prosperity note: Americans last year bought $122.5 billion worth of life insurance, and the average amount owned per family is now $15,900, double what it was just 10 years ago.

Cheering news: Mortgages seem to run on forever, but they do get finally paid. Among U.S. homeowners, one out of every four currently owns his house free and clear of debt.

Quotable notables: "I look back on my life like a good day's work; it was done and I am satisfied with it. Life is what we make it, always has been, always will be."—Grandma Moses, the artist.

Your wife might be able to save money if she learned to make her own beauty preparations. Queen Nefertiti of Egypt designed her own foundation cream. It was a mixture of white lead, chalk powder, honey and perfume. Your wife could do the same thing in her kitchen by using ground-up wallboard or white crayons, boiled sugar syrup, and a dish of your own shaving lotion.

Keeping bakers honest has been a government problem ever since man started eating bread 10,000 years ago. In ancient Persia a baker who adulterated his loaves was flung into his own oven and burned until he was well done. In Turkey offending bakers were simply nailed by the ears to the doorposts of their shops.

History lesson: Eight of the 35 U.S. presidents had names ending in "son." Can you name them? They were Thomas Jefferson, James Madison, Andrew Jackson, William Henry Harrison, Andrew Johnson, Benjamin Harrison, Woodrow Wilson, and Lyndon Johnson.

Heavenly hazards: Outer space may soon have to hire a traffic cop. The United States alone has sent up more than 500 satellites and space probes, and some 250 are still whizzing around the earth in orbit.

MEDICAL VOLUNTEERS FOR VIET NAM

One of the great tragedies of Viet Nam is the lack of qualified physicians to care for the civilian population. Of approximately 1,000 doctors in the entire country of South Viet Nam, about 700 are in military service, leaving only some 300 to care for 16 million civilians, which means about one doctor per 50,000 people. Contrast this to the United States, where there is one qualified physician for approximately every 700 people.

A goal of our government has been to strengthen the civilian economy of South Viet Nam. Improving the medical care situation is of first importance. Therefore, American doctors are being called on for help. The American Medical Association, under a contract with the State Department's Agency for International Development has assumed complete responsibility for what will be known as AMA Volunteers for Viet Nam. Under the program, U.S. physicians volunteer to work in South Vietnamese civilian hospitals on a short - term basis, usually 60 days. The physicians recruitment program was created in a response to a request from the South Vietnamese government to the U.S. government for help in bringing American physicians to South Viet Nam. Up to 32 physicians are needed every 60 days to fulfill the need. Especially needed are orthopedic and plastic surgeons, radiologists, and chest physicians, in addition to a continuing need for internists and general practitioners. The responsibility which the American Medical Association has assumed in the program is another reminder of the broad activities of the AMA in furthering the cause of the healing arts and the bringing of their benefits to the maximum number of human beings. Physicians interested in the program may write to AMA Volunteers for Viet Nam. American Medical Association, 535 North Dearborn Street, Chicago, Illinois, 60610.

SOCIAL SECURITY -- WHICH WAY TO GO?

More than 14 million Americans receive social security pension benefits each month. For those of them without any other type of income, these checks represent their only means of livelihood and render them especially sensitive to changes in the rising cost of lving.

Since the 90th Congress convened in January, over 60 bills have been introduced calling for cost-of-living increases in social security payments. A number of these bills feature automatic escalation clauses.

According to a survey by the international consulting firm of Towers, Perrin, Forster and Crosby of 100 countries having some form of social security legislation, 22 countries throughout the world use "index-related" adjustments to automatically update benefits in their systems.

Ten of the countries use a wage index, eight use a cost of living index and four use a combination of both.

Advocates of "automatic" solution to the problem of guarding pensioners against inflation and that it will, to a large degree, take social security out of the political arena.

Opponents counter that the disadvantages of such a system would far outweight those of the present system.

Control over benefits levels and cost could be lost during times of rapid inflationary spirals. And if periods of deflation come, how do you cut the benefits of 14 million or more potential voters? (Few countries with automatic adjustments decrease benefits if indexes go down, the consulting firm found.)

Furthermore, must Congress also make provisions for the automatic increase of taxes to pay for automatically increasing benefits? If not, will the funds to pay for these benefits come out of general revenue instead of being paid for by industry and its employes in equal taxes as under our present system?

It is unlikely that any of the automatic adjustment bills will be passed in this or succeeding Congresses in the foreseeable future. The administration's social security bill, now in House Ways and Means Committee hearings, does not call for any type of automatic adjustments.

But as long as inflation, creeping or otherwise, remains a problem, the idea of automatic social security will be a perennially debated issue.

SPENDING SLASH ESSENTIAL SAYS ECONOMIC LETTER

A number of congressional leaders have called for cuts in the nondefense areas of the budget in order to avoid a tax increase, the monthly economic letter for the First National City Bank of New York states.

But with or without a tax increase, the report explains, determined efforts to reduce spending are essential. For the basic problem in both fiscal '67 and '68 is that the Federal Government is enlarging its claim to the nation's resources too rapidly to avoid both inflation and a slowdown in the private business sector.

To the extent that more resources are needed for Viet Nam the expansion of domestic programs should be held back, the analysis states. In the '68 budget, domestic cash outlays are being increased more than defense spending. Since 1965, Federal cash spending will have shot upward by $50 billion.

Cut Expenditures

Cutting expenditures, the letter observes, is always a hard unpopular job. Now that many domestic programs are being expended under the "Great Society" banner, suggestions for postponement or cutbacks often draw the objection that the "poor should not be made to pay for the war." But the principal limitation on many programs is the shortage of administrators, doctors, nurses, social workers and other skilled personnel rather than shortages of money per se. Much dissatisfaction has been voiced over the administrative disorder in many programs, the letter states. Moreover, a prosperous private economy raises people out of poverty much faster and more permanently than Federal programs, the analysis continues. When Federal spending rises so steeply, the private economy is forced to slow down and real progress against poverty is delayed.

* * *

The nation's independent business proprietors share the belief with the late Napolean, Kaiser Wilhelm and Adolf Hitler that a two-front war is not good.

In fact, some 86 per cent of them feel that the Congress should not vote any more funds for the War on Poverty until the War in Vietnam is concluded.

This is the result of a nationwide poll made by the National Federation of Independent Business on this matter. Only 12 per cent of the businessmen feel that the nation can afford both, with 2 per cent undecided.

In the state of Missouri the vote is 88 per cent opposed, 11 per cent favor, with 1 per cent undecided.

The Federation has never taken a poll of sentiment toward the war in Vietnam. Volunteer comments, however, seem to indicate that there is substantial confusion over the conduct of the war. While traditionally the independent business proprietors are staunchly opposed to communism in any form, there appears to be a creeping doubt on the real objective of the military action in Vietnam. This opinion seems to be increased with the drive for more taxes which some seem to believe are not being asked primarily for the fighting forces, but rather to help offset the deficits that are mounting from the expansion of welfare programs in the 1965 Congress.

The opinion seems to be that if the nation is serious about winning in Vietnam, let's concentrate on backing up our fighting men and getting the job done, and let this so-called War on Poverty wait.

YOUTH SPEAKS; MANY LISTEN

One of the most responsible and genuine movements of the present day is that of the challenging Youth Freedom Speakers. This movement, designed to encourage young people to speak out on Freedom subjects is rapidly spreading from community to community and city to city. YFS represents a healthy exercise of freedom of speech constructively directed toward the preservation and extension of the American heritage.

The subjects with which Youth Freedom Speakers deal are not necessarily complex but do call for greater respect for law and order, individual integrity and personal honor. They basically pertain to an ever-expanding program of education in basic principles, effective planning for responsible leadership, and loyalty to God and country. These young people are, as all Americans, free and are encouraged to research, read, study and draw their own conclusions. They are challenged to give their most genuine expression in a straight to-the-target three-minute address.

Patriotic Americans admire and respect youth who are able to speak with conviction and good sense. What a grownup can state with absolute authority may often be far more effective when expressed by a teenager who is obviously nervous, yet willing to give his opinion.

It takes courage to have a conviction and to proclaim that conviction to others, and it is a stirring experience to hear the utterances of a teenager whose spirit is fired with the love of freedom. Youth Freedom Speakers are helping to save the Republic. HLH.

STOKES WINS OUT

On July 5 Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson predicted the probability that Carl Stokes, a Negro, would become the next mayor of Cleveland.

On October 3, Stokes won the Democratic nomination over the incumbent Mayor Ralph Locher.

WASHINGTON -- The White House has received a very significant cable from Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker in Saigon which highlights the obstacles President John faces in negoatiating peace.

The telegram was received just before Johnson's speech in San Antonio in which he went further than ever before regarding a bombing pause; and though Bunker's cable was discouraging, the President made his speech anyway.

What Ambassador Bunker reported on was his talks with a member of the international commission who had just arrived from North Vietnam.

This official had traveled all over the country, had talked with the most influential members of the North Vietnamese cabinet, and reported there was no chance whatsoever of Ho Chi Minh's accepting a peace bid.

The North Vietnamese are convinced our next election will result in a Republican victory. The cable read, in brief, all they have to do is wait until after November, 1968, when the new Republican President will do what Eisenhower did in Korea.

The neutral commissioner said the North Vietnamese had read Republican speeches criticizing Johnson and are convinced he will lose. Therefore they are adamant against any peace talks now.

The neutral official also reported that there wasn't the remotest possibility of North Vietnam's accepting the four-point Canadian proposal made to Hanoi through diplomatic channels and later publicly presented at the United Nations.

THE PRESIDENT'S MOOD

It was after reading this pessimistic report that President Johnson made his speech in San Antonio offering to talk with Ho Chi Minh personally or have Secretary of State Rusk talk with any high member of the North Vietnamese government. In this speech, for the first time, the President did not demand a hard and fast agreement from North Vietnam that it would not ship supplies and men south during a bombing pause, but said he "presumed" this would not be done.

Recept of this latest report from Ambassador Bunker has convinced the President that he is in for a long, tough military battle in Southeast Asia and a long, tough political battle at home.

He doesn't see any way to get around the former and his reconciled to the latter. He figures the Republicans will pound on the war more and more as a political issue. They have found it far more effective than any domestic issues; so he expects them to keep on pounding.

However, he plans to sit out the pounding. History, he figures, will judge the wisdom of his policy; and he isn't afraid of what the historians will write.

PICKING THE TARGETS

Secretary of Defense McNamara and the joint chiefs of staff have pretty much reconciled their differences over bombing targets in North Vietnam, each by giving a little.

The joint chiefs have taken 30 targets to which McNamara objected off their list, and McNamara has okayed the remainder of the list.

Late in summer, the Secretary of Defense had testified that the worthwhile targets were about exhausted, and this brought a stentorian blast from Sen. John Stennis sided with the military leaders of the Pentagon.

Since then, however, the joint chiefs have trimmed their sails. They have yielded on the Haiphong docks, regarding which both Rusk and McNamara are adamantly opposed, plus certain other much smaller targets.

McNamara objected to bombing one small tire plant because only 30 tires were being produced daily. He argued that this wasn't worth either the risk of American pilots' lives or Vietnamese civilian life. He also opposed bombing such small targets as trucks standing under trees.

On the other hand some targets have been put back on the list, such as bridges which have been rebuilt and power plants which have been reconstructed.

Targets are selected in conferences attended by both Rusk and McNamara, where either can object.

Objections don't result in acrimonious arguments. Usually it's the secretary of state more than the secretary of defense who will say, "I'd like to study that one further;" or the secretary of defense who will say, "that one isn't worth the risk of lives involved."

Why they do object, the targets are automatically removed from the list until the next meeting. The President has never yet okayed a target to which Rusk or McNamara objected.

Secretary McNamara's personal relations with the joint chiefs are good. Gen. Earle Wheeler, chairman, and Gen. Harold Johnson, chief of staff of the army, together with Gen. John McConnell, chief of the air force, and Adm. David McDonald, chief of naval operations, are all likeable, reasonable men.

It's the generals and admirals down the line who don't like McNamara. It's not a personal matter, but rather the fact that for the first time in history the secretary of defense is a tough, highly intelligent executive who knows his business and is definitely running the defense department.

The joint chiefs, torn between McNamara whom they like and their generals and admirals who don't like him, instictively are loyal to their own officers.

Congressmen and Law Enforcers Used As Respectable Fronts by Indicted 'Union' Leaders

New York; -- The time has come for all good men to come to the aid of the party by advising the high officials they've elected -- mayors, congressmen, state and local prosecutors -- to cease associating with old associates of underworld characters.

This is the time for the men the people choose to choose more carefully the type to whom they give respectable coloration.

There is a grim case in point. An old associate of Johnny (Dio) Dioguardi, the acidy Cosa Nostra convicted extortionist, has just been indicted on charges of embezzling $1,800 from his very own "union." The man indicted, on evidence dug up by the U. S. Justice Dept.'s Organized Crime and Racketeering Section, is one Louis Lasky, president of something called the National Organization of Industrial Trade Unions (NOITU).

This is merely the beginning. There are continuing federal investigations into his do-it-yourself unionism which he operates across several state lines reaching from the Borough of Queens here, into New Jersey, down past Pennsylvania and more recently into Florida.

Since where the Justice Dept. goes, I goeth in swift pursuit, this column also dug into the past of Johnny Dio's old friend. Especially so since Dio soon will come to trial on bankruptcy fraud charges.

It develops that Mr. Lasky ran this NOITU as a reasonable facsimile of a union. He even held a convention just about a year ago. And there were testimonial dinners and other ribbon-cutting events. To the convention and the dinners came local and state prosecutors, members of the Congress and even a mayor from across the Hudson.

They came though Lasky's unions were being investigated by the FBI, and the Labor Dept.'s Compliance Division.

They came and lauded this man though it was no classified secret that he had been indicted not too long ago on charges of embezzlement by listing phantom employes on the union payroll. This indictment was washed out because two federal witnesses disappeared.

They came though they should have known that the Lasky unions were the offsprings of something called the National Independent Union Council (NICU) eastern region which once had on its organizing staff Al Dugan, convicted bank robber and narcotics peddler. Dugan so harassed and frightened a company president that the executive shot and killed him.

They came though the NOITU was outside the pale of the labor movement and raided the territories of the established unions -- often by clothing itself in names which sounded like the regular labor organizations.

Not only did they come but some of them pleaded for Lasky's support -- right out in public, during the last election campaign.

They came though they, as dignitaries, were associated with political figures who today are being talked of as aspirants for the country's highest offices.

The latest Lasky-NOITU convention was opened by the president of the Borough of Queens. The "union" officers were inducted by a local congressman. What is most disillusioning is a featured speech there by the then Queens District Attorney, Nat H. Hentel, who was running (unsuccessfully) for reelection. He's the chap who arrested the members or oganized crime's "high commission," including Carlos Marcello, as they dined at a Queens restaurant, which immediately became the most popular spot in town.

Hentel should have known better. But since the others may not have been so sophisticated, and since this column does not believe in guilt by association, there is no point in listing all the state officials who paid tribute to this "union" leader.

Someone asked them to attend a convention. They came. They spoke. They ran to another platform, another dais. So it is with judges and other congressmen across the land. It is so because Lasky's type of "independent" unionism now flourishes from coast to coast.

What type of unionism? Well, the Justice Dept. is peering into Lasky's practice, for example, of "convincing" employers to insure themselves with the union's operation called "The Industry-Labor Health and Welfare Fund." Mind you, some 100 company executives paid the NOITU an average of $18 a month each. In turn the NOITU sent $10.60 to the fund, keeping more than $7 in the union's general treasury or for other projects. Jobless members also were charged $18, and so were pensioners.

There were other operations. There are other rough elements. They are on the fringe of this kind of movement which unionizes small shops anywhere there's a soft underbelly.

But that's in the hands of Justice Dept. agents. As for we, the people, we do have the right to expect the local and state law enforcers and national lawmakers not to lend their prestige to those indicted on charges of smashing those laws.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

EDITORIALS GET THINGS DONE

Newspaper editorials get things done. At times, I've wondered what. But now, I think I know.

They get people to think.

They may think the editor is an idiot. The Atlanta Constitution is rich with readers who hold that opinion. In order to arrive at it, however, they must (1) read his unsatisfactory argument, and then (2) justify their own. This is a painful experience on both counts, which may account for the soreness they exhibit in letters to the editor. But they have had to think about the subject.

And the longer I live, the more I believe the value of an editorial is not so much to carry the day, to convince everybody, or to comfort the good and convert the evil.

To achieve those goals the average editor would have to be a lot smarter than he is.

The true and lasting value lies in getting people to think for themselves, to talk and to argue, and finally to decide whatever they want to decide. The process of thought may have adjusted their decision some small distance toward the side of right, wherever that is.

"I guess a man's job," William Percy's father told him, "is to make the world a better place to live in, so far as he is able -- always remembering the results will be infinitesimal -- and to attend to his own soul."

An editorial is, of itself, no better than the incentive it provides the reader to attend to his own soul, I think. Whether the editorial opinion itself is accepted is secondary to that. The people will find their own way when they think.

The race issue in the South was editorially muffled for many years. The primary contribution of editors like Hodding Carter and Ralph McGill and Lenoir Chambers lay not so much in convincing all Southerners that segregation was wrong; they obviously failed, had that been their purpose. Primarily, they encouraged people to talk about it -- to break the muffling silence, to stop fearing discussion of it, to speak the unspeakable and think the unthinkable, and to realize it was a subject they could argue.

This breaking of silent fear, this beginning of talking and thinking, is the goal an editor shoots for in a frozen situation where minds have ceased to question. The editorial doesn't have to be right. But it does get things done.

It gets the people to think.

It is an astonishing commentary on American life that the passion for come as you are has been blunted by an amusement park.

Disneyland will have no part of the hippies. It also bars girls in miniskirts and young men whose hair is long enough to attract attention. The unclean are unwelcome.

The Anaheim park's success is due to maintaining a reliable atmosphere. It can't do it with the distraction offered by the presence of scummy human beings, bums or even the virtuous and well meaning, who merely get carried away by the fashion crazes of the time.

This will be surprising news to high school students, whom frequently associate personal freedom with the false notion that school authorities cannot dictate to them what they will wear to classes.

Disneyland insists on putting on its own show in its own way and its cash register rings a joyous story of continuous success to its owners.

Until reminded by Disneyland's example too few Americans have paid any attention to the environment created by surroundings, their dress, manners and conversation -- yes, even to application of soap and water.

Much is lost in slovenly dress, slothful posture, unkept appearance, dirty necks, scraggly, uncombed or unbrushed hair, crooked, dirty teeth, soiled garments and conversation to match.

Many American tourists look only slightly better than a hippie.

A shapely girl looks good in a miniskirt, shorts or slacks, but, alas, too few possess the gentle contours required.

As for the middle-aged and elderly travelers, many are guaranteed to louse up the environment of any neighborhood no matter how unfamiliar.

There's Pa wearing a long billed cap, his elbow akimbo, his pot belly keeping through an open collar, short sleeves sport shirt, his shirt tail trailing in the breeze. His sports emphasize his ungainly, stooped, bow legged stance, his knobby knees and hairy, spindly legs.

Maw brings up the rear and she lends much weight to her position. Her faded hair is accentuated by a worn shawl and giant horn rimmed glasses.

She is wearing slacks. All the curves are in the wrong places as she waddles along in open toe sandals.

[illegible] As far as the atmosphere they create it would have been better if both had stayed at home.

Nothing has ever been devised that lends as much enchantment to an unattractive body as adequate cover.

Come as you are has an engaging sound but it hasn't worked out well.

Too many Americans regard it as an invitation to cast off the more attractive, dignified dress they wear at home.

The casual look often isn't good looking.

The eroded, tastelessly dressed travelers themselves contribute to the unsightly appearance of billboards, the weeds, the empty tin cans and other litter of roadside blight.

America has gone too far with "come as you are."

Some well wisher sends me this clipping from the Louisville Courier-Journal and for the fear that I'll butcher it up by comment, I'll pass it on in toto. It reads:

While the FCC is berating television for its cigarette commercials, we wish it would look into another aspect of TV ads aimed not at corrupting the youth but at demoralizing the adult. In TV commercials, nothing good happens to anyone past the age of discretion. Life not only doesn't begin at 40, it ends at 25.

Watch the people in these ads for awhile. Teenagers invariably have great, glistening teeth. Adults have dentures and denture breath. Boys switch hair grease and girls are glad. Men don't have hair. If they do, it is full of dandruff. Boys douse themselves with shaving lotion and wait to beat off the women, like traps full of cheese. Older men are happy to find something that drains all eight sinuses.

Young people have fun. Older people have nagging headaches. Young people spend all night wolfing hamburgers at amusement parks or beach parties. Older people go to a nearby movie and have to leave because their stummick is killing them. Girls have yards of blonde hair full of body and boys nuzzle it. Wives have gray hair and their husbands won't take them dancing. Men work hard and get ahead, only to have some pimply assistant tell them they have bad breath. The teen age wife makes a cup of coffee and turns her husband into a sex maniac. The older wife washes, irons, mops floors and puts up with birds on the sink, and her husband comes home with a miserable headache and takes it out on her. Girls are always washing their hair. Wives are always washing dishes.

Teen-agers wear sneakers and sandals. Adults wear support hose. Teen-agers rub each other with suntan oil. Adults rub each other with liniment. Teen-agers spent a lot of time in boats, sports cars and swimmmng pools. Adults spend their time in doctors' offices and listening to tedious insurance peddlers. Young people romp through the fields and sniff flowers. Adults get hay fever and sneeze. Young people are always at the end of a glorious evening. Adults are always at the end of their rope.

Life is fun, fun for the young. They can laugh even with their mouths full of hair. About the only happy time for an addult is when he has an accident and the insurance company pays off. It isn't fair. Worse, we have a feeling that it's all too true.

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

The average snail's pace, science has decided, is 23 inches an hour—on a clear day and a fast track.

Nothing brings married people together like the income tax. In 1965, some 39.3 million U.S. couples filed joint returns. Only 2.8 million married people paid their taxes to Uncle Sam separately.

What kind of debris collects behind the desk drawers in business offices? A recent check by cleaners disclosed that 12 per cent had unsent Christmas cards, 10 per cent had shoe polishing gear, 19 per cent had miscellaneous business cards, and nearly 100 per cent had forgotten medicines and personal photos.

How well off is the ordinary Russian after 50 years of communism? According to Eugene Lyons in "Workers' Paradise Lost," a Soviet workman has to pay four months' salary for a washing machine, then wait a year for the machine to be delivered.

Prosperity note: Americans last year bought $122.5 billion worth of life insurance, and the average amount owned per family is now $15,900, double what it was just 10 years ago.

Cheering news: Mortgages seem to run on forever, but they do get finally paid. Among U.S. homeowners, one out of every four currently owns his house free and clear of debt.

Keeping bakers honest has been a government problem ever since man started eating bread 10,000 years ago. In ancient Persia a baker who adulterated his loaves was flung into his own oven and burned until he was well done. Heavenly hazards: Outer space may soon have to hire a traffic cop. The United States alone has sent up more than 500 satellites and space probes, and some 250 are still whizzing around the earth in orbit.

MEDICAL VOLUNTEERS FOR VIET NAM

One of the great tragedies of Viet Nam is the lack of qualified physicians to care for the civilian population. Of approximately 1,000 doctors in the entire country of South Viet Nam, about 700 are in military service, leaving only some 300 to care for 16 million civilians, which means about one doctor per 50,000 people. Contrast this to the United States, where there is one qualified physician for approximately every 700 people.

A goal of our government has been to strengthen the civilian economy of South Viet Nam. Improving the medical care situation is of first importance. Therefore, American doctors are being called on for help. The American Medical Association, under a contract with the State Department's Agency for International Development has assumed complete responsibility for what will be known as AMA Volunteers for Viet Nam. Under the program, U.S. physicians volunteer to work in South Vietnamese civilian hospitals on a short - term basis, usually 60 days. The physicians recruitment program was created in a response to a request from the South Vietnamese government to the U.S. government for help in bringing American physicians to South Viet Nam. Up to 32 physicians are needed every 60 days to fulfill the need. Especially needed are orthopedic and plastic surgeons, radiologists, and chest physicians, in addition to a continuing need for internists and general practitioners. The responsibility which the American Medical Association has assumed in the program is another reminder of the broad activities of the AMA in furthering the cause of the healing arts and the bringing of their benefits to the maximum number of human beings. Physicians interested in the program may write to AMA Volunteers for Viet Nam, American Medical Association, 535 North Dearborn Street, Chicago, Illinois, 60610.

SOCIAL SECURITY -- WHICH WAY TO GO?

More than 14 million Americans receive social security pension benefits each month. For those of them without any other type of income, these checks represent their only means of livelihood and render them especially sensitive to changes in the rising cost of lving.

Since the 90th Congress convened in January, over 60 bills have been introduced calling for cost-of-living increases in social security payments. A number of these bills feature automatic escalation clauses.

According to a survey by the international consulting firm of Towers, Perrin, Forster and Crosby of 100 countries having some form of social security legislation, 22 countries throughout the world use "index-related" adjustments to automatically update benefits in their systems.

Ten of the countries use a wage index, eight use a cost of living index and four use a combination of both.

Advocates of "automatic" solution to the problem of guarding pensioners against inflation and that it will, to a large degree, take social security out of the political arena.

Opponents counter that the disadvantages of such a system would far outweight those of the present system.

Control over benefits levels and cost could be lost during times of rapid inflationary spirals. And if periods of deflation come, how do you cut the benefits of 14 million or more potential voters? (Few countries with automatic adjustments decrease benefits if indexes go down, the consulting firm found.)

Furthermore, must Congress also make provisions for the automatic increase of taxes to pay for automatically increasing benefits? If not, will the funds to pay for these benefits come out of general revenue instead of being paid for by industry and its employes in equal taxes as under our present system?

It is unlikely that any of the automatic adjustment bills will be passed in this or succeeding Congresses in the foreseeable future. The administration's social security bill, now in House Ways and Means Committee hearings, does not call for any type of automatic adjustments.

But as long as inflation, creeping or otherwise, remains a problem, the idea of automatic social security will be a perennially debated issue.

SPENDING SLASH ESSENTIAL SAYS ECONOMIC LETTER

A number of congressional leaders have called for cuts in the nondefense areas of the budget in order to avoid a tax increase, the monthly economic letter for the First National City Bank of New York states.

But with or without a tax increase, the report explains, determined efforts to reduce spending are essential. For the basic problem in both fiscal '67 and '68 is that the Federal Government is enlarging its claim to the nation's resources too rapidly to avoid both inflation and a slowdown in the private business sector.

To the extent that more resources are needed for Viet Nam the expansion of domestic programs should be held back, the analysis states. In the '68 budget, domestic cash outlays are being increased more than defense spending. Since 1965, Federal cash spending will have shot upward by $50 billion.

Cut Expenditures

Cutting expenditures, the letter observes, is always a hard unpopular job. Now that many domestic programs are being expended under the "Great Society" banner, suggestions for postponement or cutbacks often draw the objection that the "poor should not be made to pay for the war." But the principal limitation on many programs is the shortage of administrators, doctors, nurses, social workers and other skilled personnel rather than shortages of money per se. Much dissatisfaction has been voiced over the administrative disorder in many programs, the letter states. Moreover, a prosperous private economy raises people out of poverty much faster and more permanently than Federal programs, the analysis continues. When Federal spending rises so steeply, the private economy is forced to slow down and real progress against poverty is delayed.

* * *

The nation's independent business proprietors share the belief with the late Napolean, Kaiser Wilhelm and Adolf Hitler that a two-front war is not good.

In fact, some 86 per cent of them feel that the Congress should not vote any more funds for the War on Poverty until the War in Vietnam is concluded.

This is the result of a nationwide poll made by the National Federation of Independent Business on this matter. Only 12 per cent of the businessmen feel that the nation can afford both, with 2 per cent undecided.

In the state of Missouri the vote is 88 per cent opposed, 11 per cent favor, with 1 per cent undecided.

The Federation has never taken a poll of sentiment toward the war in Vietnam. Volunteer comments, however, seem to indicate that there is substantial confusion over the conduct of the war. While traditionally the independent business proprietors are staunchly opposed to communism in any form, there appears to be a creeping doubt on the real objective of the military action in Vietnam. This opinion seems to be increased with the drive for more taxes which some seem to believe are not being asked primarily for the fighting forces, but rather to help offset the deficits that are mounting from the expansion of welfare programs in the 1965 Congress.

The opinion seems to be that if the nation is serious about winning in Vietnam, let's concentrate on backing up our fighting men and getting the job done, and let this so-called War on Poverty wait.

YOUTH SPEAKS; MANY LISTEN

One of the most responsible and genuine movements of the present day is that of the challenging Youth Freedom Speakers. This movement, designed to encourage young people to speak out on Freedom subjects is rapidly spreading from community to community and city to city. YFS represents a healthy exercise of freedom of speech constructively directed toward the preservation and extension of the American heritage.

The subjects with which Youth Freedom Speakers deal are not necessarily complex but do call for greater respect for law and order, individual integrity and personal honor. They basically pertain to an ever-expanding program of education in basic principles, effective planning for responsible leadership, and loyalty to God and country. These young people are, as all Americans, free and are encouraged to research, read, study and draw their own conclusions. They are challenged to give their most genuine expression in a straight to-the-target three-minute address.

Patriotic Americans admire and respect youth who are able to speak with conviction and good sense. What a grownup can state with absolute authority may often be far more effective when expressed by a teenager who is obviously nervous, yet willing to give his opinion.

It takes courage to have a conviction and to proclaim that conviction to others, and it is a stirring experience to hear the utterances of a teenager whose spirit is fired with the love of freedom. Youth Freedom Speakers are helping to save the Republic. HLH.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

STOKES WINS OUT

On July 5 Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson predicted the probability that Carl Stokes, a Negro, would become the next mayor of Cleveland.

On October 3, Stokes won the Democratic nomination over the incumbent Mayor Ralph Locher.

WASHINGTON -- The White House has received a very significant cable from Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker in Saigon which highlights the obstacles President John faces in negotiating peace.

The telegram was received just before Johnson's speech in San Antonio in which he went further than ever before regarding a bombing pause; and though Bunker's cable was discouraging, the President made his speech anyway.

This official had traveled all over the country, had talked with the most influential members of the North Vietnamese cabinet, and reported there was no chance whatsoever of Ho Chi Minh's accepting a peace bid.

The North Vietnamese are convinced our next election will result in a Republican victory. The cable read, in brief, all they have to do is wait until after November, 1968, when the new Republican President will do what Eisenhower did in Korea.

The neutral commissioner said the North Vietnamese had read Republican speeches criticizing Johnson and are convinced he will lose. Therefore they are adamant against any peace talks now.

The neutral official also reported that there wasn't the remotest possibility of North Vietnam's accepting the four-point Canadian proposal made to Hanoi through diplomatic channels and later publicly presented at the United Nations.

THE PRESIDENT'S MOOD

It was after reading this pessimistic report that President Johnson made his speech in San Antonio offering to talk with Ho Chi Minh personally or have Secretary of State Rusk talk with any high member of the North Vietnamese government. In this speech, for the first time, the President did not demand a hard and fast agreement from North Vietnam that it would not ship supplies and men south during a bombing pause, but said he "presumed" this would not be done.

Recept of this latest report from Ambassador Bunker has convinced the President that he is in for a long, tough military battle in Southeast Asia and a long, tough political battle at home.

He doesn't see any way to get around the former and his reconciled to the latter. He figures the Republicans will pound on the war more and more as a political issue. They have found it far more effective than any domestic issues; so he expects them to keep on pounding.

However, he plans to sit out the pounding. History, he figures, will judge the wisdom of his policy; and he isn't afraid of what the historians will write.

PICKING THE TARGETS

Secretary of Defense McNamara and the joint chiefs of staff have pretty much reconciled their differences over bombing targets in North Vietnam, each by giving a little.

The joint chiefs have taken 30 targets to which McNamara objected off their list, and McNamara has okayed the remainder of the list.

Late in summer, the Secretary of Defense had testified that the worthwhile targets were about exhausted, and this brought a stentorian blast from Sen. John Stennis sided with the military leaders of the Pentagon.

Since then, however, the joint chiefs have trimmed their sails. They have yielded on the Haiphong docks, regarding which both Rusk and McNamara are adamantly opposed, plus certain other much smaller targets.

McNamara objected to bombing one small tire plant because only 30 tires were being produced daily. He argued that this wasn't worth either the risk of American pilots' lives or Vietnamese civilian life. He also opposed bombing such small targets as trucks standing under trees.

On the other hand some targets have been put back on the list, such as bridges which have been rebuilt and power plants which have been reconstructed.

Targets are selected in conferences attended by both Rusk and McNamara, where either can object.

Objections don't result in acrimonious arguments. Usually it's the secretary of state more than the secretary of defense who will say, "I'd like to study that one further;" or the secretary of defense who will say, "that one isn't worth the risk of lives involved."

Why they do object, the targets are automatically removed from the list until the next meeting. The President has never yet okayed a target to which Rusk or McNamara objected.

Secretary McNamara's personal relations with the joint chiefs are good. Gen. Earle Wheeler, chairman, and Gen. Harold Johnson, chief of staff of the army, together with Gen. John McConnell, chief of the air force, and Adm. David McDonald, chief of naval operations, are all likeable, reasonable men.

It's the generals and admirals down the line who don't like McNamara. It's not a personal matter, but rather the fact that for the first time in history the secretary of defense is a tough, highly intelligent executive who knows his business and is definitely running the defense department.

The joint chiefs, torn between McNamara whom they like and their generals and admirals who don't like him, instictively are loyal to their own officers.

Congressmen and Law Enforcers Used As Respectable Fronts by Indicted 'Union' Leaders

New York: -- The time has come for all good men to come to the aid of the party by advising the high officials they've elected -- mayors, congressmen, state and local prosecutors -- to cease associating with old associates of underworld characters.

This is the time for the men the people choose to choose more carefully the type to whom they give respectable coloration.

There is a grim case in point. An old associate of Johnny (Dio) Dioguardi, the acidy Cosa Nostra convicted extortionist, has just been indicted on charges of embezzling $1,800 from his very own "union." The man indicted, on evidence dug up by the U. S. Justice Dept.'s Organized Crime and Racketeering Section, is one Louis Lasky, president of something called the National Organization of Industrial Trade Unions (NOITU).

This is merely the beginning. There are continuing federal investigations into his do-it-yourself unionism which he operates across several state lines reaching from the Borough of Queens here, into New Jersey, down past Pennsylvania and more recently into Florida.

Since where the Justice Dept. goes, I goeth in swift pursuit, this column also dug into the past of Johnny Dio's old friend. Especially so since Dio soon will come to trial on bankruptcy fraud charges.

It develops that Mr. Lasky ran this NOITU as a reasonable facsimile of a union. He even held a convention just about a year ago. And there were testimonial dinners and other ribbon-cutting events. To the convention and the dinners came local and state prosecutors, members of the Congress and even a mayor from across the Hudson.

They came though Lasky's unions were being investigated by the FBI, and the Labor Dept.'s Compliance Division.

They came and lauded this man though it was no classified secret that he had been indicted not too long ago on charges of embezzlement by listing phantom employes on the union payroll. This indictment was washed out because two federal witnesses disappeared.

They came though they should have known that the Lasky unions were the offsprings of something called the National Independent Union Council (NICU) eastern region which once had on its organizing staff Al Dugan, convicted bank robber and narcotics peddler. Dugan so harassed and frightened a company president that the executive shot and killed him.

They came though the NOITU was outside the pale of the labor movement and raided the territories of the established unions -- often by clothing itself in names which sounded like the regular labor organizations.

Not only did they come but some of them pleaded for Lasky's support -- right out in public, during the last election campaign.

They came though they, as dignitaries, were associated with political figures who today are being talked of as aspirants for the country's highest offices.

The latest Lasky-NOITU convention was opened by the president of the Borough of Queens. The "union" officers were inducted by a local congressman. What is most disillusioning is a featured speech there by the then Queens District Attorney, Nat H. Hentel, who was running (unsuccessfully) for reelection. He's the chap who arrested the members or oganized crime's "high commission," including Carlos Marcello, as they dined at a Queens restaurant, which immediately became the most popular spot in town.

Hentel should have known better. But since the others may not have been so sophisticated, and since this column does not believe in guilt by association, there is no point in listing all the state officials who paid tribute to this "union" leader.

Someone asked them to attend a convention. They came. They spoke. They ran to another platform, another dais. So it is with judges and other congressmen across the land. It is so because Lasky's type of "independent" unionism now flourishes from coast to coast.

What type of unionism? Well, the Justice Dept. is peering into Lasky's practice, for example, of "convincing" employers to insure themselves with the union's operation called "The Industry-Labor Health and Welfare Fund." Mind you, some 100 company executives paid the NOITU an average of $18 a month each. In turn the NOITU sent $10.60 to the fund, keeping more than $7 in the union's general treasury or for other projects. Jobless members also were charged $18, and so were pensioners.

There were other operations. There are other rough elements. They are on the fringe of this kind of movement which unionizes small shops anywhere there's a soft underbelly.

But that's in the hands of Justice Dept. agents. As for we, the people, we do have the right to expect the local and state law enforcers and national lawmakers not to lend their prestige to those indicted on charges of smashing those laws.

Gibson's Puts Sox' Back Against Wall

ST. LOUIS (AP) -- St. Louis' Bob Gibson has four straight World Series victories, and now the Cardinals are on the threshold of equalling that streak.

They put themselves into position to extend their series records to four straight today by coasting past Boston 6-0 Sunday behind Gibson's five - hit pitching.

The victory gave St. Louis a 3-1 lead in the Series and Gibson a four - game winning streak dating back to 1964 when he was the Series' hero.

In an attempt to force the Series back to Boston, Manager Dick Williams of the Red Sox called on Jim Lonborg, who threw a one-hitter last Thursday to face St. Louis today.

"Carlton is capable of pitching a shutout just like Gibson did," Schoendienst said.

If the Cardinals wrap up the Series today or back in Boston, it'll be the fourth straight time they have won the postseason affair.

The last time they failed in a Series was in 1943 when they lost to the New York Yankees four games to one.

They came back the next year to take their neighbors, the St. Louis Browns, 4-3; they edged the Red Sox 4-3 in the 1946 and did the same to the Yankees in 1964.

In looking toward their fourth in a row, the Cardinals have hitting, pitching and precedence in their favor.

Only three teams in history have come back from a 3-1 deficit and won the whole thing -- the 1903 Red Sox over Pittsburgh in a nine-game series, the 1925 Pirates against Washington and the 1958 New York Yankees over Milwaukee.

"We have our backs to the wall, but we're not giving up," Williams said after watching Gibson allow only one runner past first base and record his second victory of this Series.

The Red Sox didn't quit Sunday, but they were pitched into retirement by Gibson.

The 31-year-old right-hander was pitching on three days rest for the first time since last year's All-Star game, and he said he became tired in the last two innings.

But the Red Sox couldn't do anything against him. They got harmless singles in the first, fourth, sixth and eighth innings and then Carl Yastrzemski's meaningless double in the ninth.

"I was more comfortable in the first game; I was more tired in this one," said Gibson, who hurled a six-hit 2-1 victory in the opener last Wednesday.

"I really had to force myself in the eighth and ninth innings and when you force yourself, it's not as easy."

Williams agreed on Gibson's self-appraisal.

"He didn't have as good stuff as he did in the opener," the manager said, "but he's a great pitcher and deserves all the credit in the world. He was throwing strikes and that's the big thing. When he got the 4-0 lead in the first inning, he just made sure we hit the ball."

Bob Gibson

The Cardinals certainly hit the ball in the first inning, clobbering Jose Santiago for four runs and six hits before Williams replaced him with Gary Bell, who as a starter was rocked for three runs and five hits in the first two innings Saturday.

Lou Brock and Curt Flood singled, and both scored as Roger Maris lashed a double. One out later, Tim McCarver singled home Maris, and after Santiago managed to get another out, singles by Julian Javier and Dal Maxville brought McCarver around.

"When you have that many runs so early, you can relax a little bit although I don't think to the point where you get careless," commented Gibson.

The Cardinal ace, who was out from July 15 to Sept. 6. with a broken leg, never did get careless. He walked just one man, Reggie Smith, in the seventh but ended the inning by snaring Rico Petrocelli's little check-swing pop down the first base line.

"It kind of surprised me," the pitcher explained. "I realized it was going to stay up, and I ran over and got it."

Gibson might also get his prediction right.

Tigers, Buffaloes Face Showdown

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nebraska's defending Big Eight football champs needed all their poise to escape, 16-14, over incredible Kansas State, setting up an early showdown Saturday — Missouri at Colorado. It's the first in a series of big ones among the unbeaten top four.

Nebraska is ranked No. 7 nationally, Colorado No. 8, Missouri fans wonder why newsmen haven't voted their Tigers in the top 10, and Oklahoma fans will be wondering the same thing if OU beats Texas Saturday. K-State is at Iowa State and Nebraska at Kansas in other games.

It looks like a great four-team race now and things could really get wacky if spoilers like K-State and Oklahoma State turn an upset or two. Every weekend has a big one, with Colorado at Nebraska Oct. 21, Oklahoma at Missouri Oct. 28 and Colorado at Oklahoma Nov. 4.

Missouri's tough defense which begrudged just nine points to SMU, Northwestern and Arizona, could be a supreme test for Colorado, which ran over Iowa State 34-0. Clay Stapleton, in his 10th year as Iowa State coach, said "This is the best Colorado team I've ever seen."

Nebraska survived on a 31-yard field goal with 71 seconds left by sophomore Bill Bomberger, who had missed four straight in three games. It climaxed a last-ditch 17-play drive from the Nebraska 15, led by quarterback Frank Patrick and split end Dennis Richnafsky, who got the game ball for his school record 13 receptions good for 137 yards.

"This was another real great comeback," said Coach Bob Devaney. "It was a replica of the Missouri game two years ago at Columbia."

K-State turned a pair of fumbles, forced on vicious defensive play by tackle Bill Salat and safety Mitch Borota, into scoring drives for an early 14-0 lead.

"We didn't beat ourselves — Nebraska just beat us with execution," said Vince Gibson, new K-State coach. "I've coached a long time and I've never had a team give me four quarters of effort like that."

"This team doesn't have comparable personnel to our 1965 team," said Dan Devine, Missouri coach. After the '65 season, MU won the Sugar Bowl.

Missouri lost halfback Jon Staggers with a shoulder injury, but Colorado may have lost halfback John Farler with a leg injury at Boulder.

Quarterback Bob Anderson had 196 yards total offense for Colorado.

Ohio quarterback Cleve Bryant had 344 total offense, 265 by air, in an upset 30-15 victory over Kansas at Lawrence. Pepper Rodgers, new KU coach, said "Frank Broyles lost his first six at Arkansas — that keeps me going."

Oklahoma State, still without four injured offensive regulars, fell from the unbeaten ranks with a 19-0 loss at Texas, which struck twice early after OSU punts of 11 and 22 yards. Oklahoma had an open date.

K-State didn't stop after getting Nebraska down 14-0. On its next possession, K-State went to the Husker 11 with a 42-yard pass, Bill Nossek to Dave Jones. But Nebraska dug in and Mike Bruhin's field goal attempt barely missed. Then NU started its long, agonizing comeback.

"I thought K-State was going to run us out of the stadium the first quarter," Devaney said. "They are a well coached team."

K-State had several defensive heroes. End Bill Kennedy deflected a conversion kick to keep his team on top 14-13. Linebacker Danny Lankas had another outstanding game and Gibson said "He's an All America."

Gibson said Mike Goyne, defensive tackle, "really played a game today— they picked on him the first two games, but not today."

Missouri quarterback Gary Kombrink threw for 82 yards and ran for 17 despite being thrown for 38 yards in losses. Fullback Barry Lischner stomped 45 yards in 14 trips. But Devine wasn't happy that his club fumbled away two punts, one by Meyer setting up the Arizona field goal.

"Arizona was stronger physically than we were," Devine said.

Dawson Tosses for 5 TDs To Spark Chiefs' 41-0 Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Len Dawson, Kansas City's conservative quarterback, was at his ad lib best but Bob Scarpitto, Denver's impromptu punter, would have been better off sticking to his script.

Dawson hurled five touchdown passes, touching off the spree with a 77-yarder on a broken play, as the Chiefs bombed Miami 41-0 in the American Football League Sunday.

Scarpitto, trying to run from punting position on a fourth down, was swamred under by Buffalo defenders, giving the Bills possession and setting up Buffalo's 17-16 victory over Denver.

In Sunday's other game, San Diego rallied behind John Hadl for a 31-31 tie against Boston. Saturday night, New York knocked off previously-unbeaten Oakland 27-14.

Dawson, the AFL's all-time leading passer, has often been criticized for sticking too firmly to the game plan and not innovating on plays.

Hart, Roland lead Big Red To 34-24 Comeback Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vince Lombardi ignored the panic button and the Green Bay Packers scrambled back to daylight.

John Brodie flipped the safety switch and the Los Angeles Rams stumbled in the dark.

The Packers spotted Detroit a 10-0 first-quarter lead Sunday, then rallied for a 27-17 victory that kept them atop the National Football League's Central Division with a 3-0-1 mark.

Brodie, meanwhile, tossed a 28-yard scoring pass to Sonny Randle in the fourth period that gave the San Francisco 49ers a 27-24 triumph over the previously-unbeaten Rams.

Baltimore kept its perfect record intact with a 24-3 victory over Chicago, St. Louis rallied to top Minnesota 34- 24, Dallas edged Washington 17-14 on a last-minute TD pitch by Don Meredith, Philadelphia mauled Atlanta 38-7 and New York downed New Orleans 27-21 in other Sunday games. Cleveland trimmed Pittsburgh 21-10 Saturday night.

The Packers, who had to come from 17 points down three weeks ago to earn a 17-17 tie with Detroit in their season opener, won the return match with a 17-point binge in the final period.

"One thing you learn in this league is not to panic," said Lombardi, the Packers' tough-minded general manager-coach. "If you start making drastic adjustments because you're down a few points...you're in trouble."

Brodie drove the 49ers 69 yards for their winning touchdown at Los Angeles after the Rams had erased a 20-0 halftime deficit to go four points up.

The 49ers, crushed by Baltimore 41-7 a week ago, handed the Rams their first setback in four starts after blowing the first-half bulge in a span of just over 10 minutes in the third period.

Brodie also fired touchdown bombs of 59 and 55 yards to John David Crow and Bob Windsor.

The Colts broke open a defensive struggle at Chicago when rookie Rich Volk raced 97 yards with an intercepted pass and Ordell Braase rumbled nine yards with a recovered fumble for two fourth-quarter touchdowns. The victory gave Baltimore a one-game lead over Los Angeles in the Coastal Division.

Meredith's 36-yard scoring strike to Dan Reeves with 18 seconds remaining lifted the Cowboys past Washington for their third victory against one loss. One minute earlier, the Redskins had taken a 14-10 lead on Sonny Jurgensen's eight-yard TD pass to Charlie Taylor.

Trailing 24-13 with less than seven minutes to play at Minnesota, the Cardinals, 3-1, struck for three touchdowns behind rookie quarterback Jim Hart and hard-driving halfback Johnny Roland.

Hart tossed a 40-yard scoring pass to Dave Williams and Roland ran for two more tallies as the Cards stayed atop the Century Division.

Norm Snead threw a 67-yard TD pass to Gary Ballman, hit Mike Ditka with a two-yard payoff pitch and set up another score with a 59-yard pass to Jim Kelly, leading the Eagles, 3-1, past winless Atlanta. The victory left Philadelphia in a first-place tie with Dallas in the Capitol Division.

Fran Tarkenton riddled New Orleans for 348 passing yards and two touchdowns in the victory at New York. Tarkenton's 11-yard toss to Bob Crespino in the last quarter extended the Saints' losing string to four.

Braves, Astros Complete Trade

ST. LOUIS (AP) - The Atlanta Braves have come up with a shortstop in Sonny Jackson and the Houston Astros have strengthened their pitching staff by acquiring left-handed Denny Lemaster.

The two National League clubs announced a four-player swap in the press box Sunday during the fourth World Series game.

In addition to Jackson, the Braves obtained first baseman Chuck Harrison, who already has been ticketed to the Richmond farm club of the International League.

Houston also got shortstop Denis Menke who had outlived his welcome with the Braves' management with a .227 season.

Bill Giles, Houston vice president in charge of public relations, hinted the deal might be part of another swap by which Menke might move on to another club. He would not say what other team might be involved.

State Grabs 25-0 Win

The MIAA heads into its first Saturday of league action with a 11-13 won-lost record against a tough outside schedule, while the MCAU has an impressive 10-4-2 non-conference record.

Five MIAA clubs have 2-2 records and the sixth, Maryville State, stand 1-3, However, Cape Girardeau State, a 25-0 winner over Bradley at Cape Saturday night, still rates high along with defending champion Springfield State.

"I was more comfortable in the first game; I was more tired in this one," said Gibson, who hurled a six-hit 2-1 victory in the opener last Wednesday.

"I really had to force myself in the eighth and ninth innings and when you force yourself, it's not as easy."

Williams agreed on Gibson's self-appraisal.

"He didn't have as good stuff as he did in the opener," the manager said, "but he's a great pitcher and deserves all the credit in the world. He was throwing strikes and that's the big thing. When he got the 4-0 lead in the first inning, he just made sure we hit the ball."

Bob Gibson

The Cardinals certainly hit the ball in the first inning, clobbering Jose Santiago for four runs and six hits before Williams replaced him with Gary Bell, who as a starter was rocked for three runs and five hits in the first two innings Saturday.

Lou Brock and Curt Flood singled, and both scored as Roger Maris lashed a double. One out later, Tim McCarver singled home Maris, and after Santiago managed to get another out, singles by Julian Javier and Dal Maxville brought McCarver around.

"When you have that many runs so early, you can relax a little bit although I don't think to the point where you get careless," commented Gibson.

The Cardinal ace, who was out from July 15 to Sept. 6. with a broken leg, never did get careless. He walked just one man, Reggie Smith, in the seventh but ended the inning by snaring Rico Petrocelli's little check-swing pop down the first base line.

"It kind of surprised me," the pitcher explained. "I realized it was going to stay up, and I ran over and got it."

Gibson might also get his prediction right.

Hart, Roland Lead Big Red To 34-24 Comeback Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vince Lombardi ignored the panic button and the Green Bay Packers scrambled back to daylight.

The Packers spotted Detroit a 10-0 first-quarter lead Sunday, then rallied for a 27-17 victory that kept them atop the National Football League's Central Division with a 3-0-1 mark.

Brodie, meanwhile, tossed a 28-yard scoring pass to Sonny Randle in the fourth period that gave the San Francisco 49ers a 27-24 triumph over the previously-unbeaten Rams.

Baltimore kept its perfect record intact with a 24-3 victory over Chicago, St. Louis rallied to top Minnesota 34- 24, Dallas edged Washington 17-14 on a last-minute TD pitch by Don Meredith, Philadelphia mauled Atlanta 38-7 and New York downed New Orleans 27-21 in other Sunday games. Cleveland trimmed Pittsburgh 21-10 Saturday night.

The Packers, who had to come from 17 points down three weeks ago to earn a 17-17 tie with Detroit in their season opener, won the return match with a 17-point binge in the final period.

"One thing you learn in this league is not to panic," said Lombardi, the Packers' tough-minded general manager-coach. "If you start making drastic adjustments because you're down a few points...you're in trouble."

Brodie drove the 49ers 69 yards for their winning touchdown at Los Angeles after the Rams had erased a 20-0 halftime deficit to go four points up.

The 49ers, crushed by Baltimore 41-7 a week ago, handed the Rams their first setback in four starts after blowing the first-half bulge in a span of just over 10 minutes in the third period.

Brodie also fired touchdown bombs of 59 and 55 yards to John David Crow and Bob Windsor.

The Colts broke open a defensive struggle at Chicago when rookie Rich Volk raced 97 yards with an intercepted pass and Ordell Braase rumbled nine yards with a recovered fumble for two fourth-quarter touchdowns. The victory gave Baltimore a one-game lead over Los Angeles in the Coastal Division.

Meredith's 36-yard scoring strike to Dan Reeves with 18 seconds remaining lifted the Cowboys past Washington for their third victory against one loss. One minute earlier, the Redskins had taken a 14-10 lead on Sonny Jurgensen's eight-yard TD pass to Charlie Taylor.

Trailing 24-13 with less than seven minutes to play at Minnesota, the Cardinals, 3-1, struck for three touchdowns behind rookie quarterback Jim Hart and hard-driving halfback Johnny Roland.

Hart tossed a 40-yard scoring pass to Dave Williams and Roland ran for two more tallies as the Cards stayed atop the Century Division.

Norm Snead threw a 67-yard TD pass to Gary Ballman, hit Mike Ditka with a two-yard payoff pitch and set up another score with a 59-yard pass to Jim Kelly, leading the Eagles, 3-1, past winless Atlanta. The victory left Philadelphia in a first-place tie with Dallas in the Capitol Division.

Fran Tarkenton riddled New Orleans for 348 passing yards and two touchdowns in the victory at New York. Tarkenton's 11-yard toss to Bob Crespino in the last quarter extended the Saints' losing string to four.

Braves, Astros Complete Trade

ST. LOUIS (AP) - The Atlanta Braves have come up with a shortstop in Sonny Jackson and the Houston Astros have strengthened their pitching staff by acquiring left-handed Denny Lemaster.

The two National League clubs announced a four-player swap in the press box Sunday during the fourth World Series game.

In addition to Jackson, the Braves obtained first baseman Chuck Harrison, who already has been ticketed to the Richmond farm club of the International League.

Houston also got shortstop Denis Menke who had outlived his welcome with the Braves' management with a .227 season.

Bill Giles, Houston vice president in charge of public relations, hinted the deal might be part of another swap by which Menke might move on to another club. He would not say what other team might be involved.

The MIAA heads into its first Saturday of league action with a 11-13 won-lost record against a tough outside schedule, while the MCAU has an impressive 10-4-2 non-conference record.

Five MIAA clubs have 2-2 records and the sixth, Maryville State, stand 1-3, However, Cape Girardeau State, a 25-0 winner over Bradley at Cape Saturday night, still rates high along with defending champion Springfield State.

Tigers, Buffaloes Face Showdown

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nebraska's defending Big Eight football champs needed all their poise to escape, 16-14, over incredible Kansas State, setting up an early showdown Saturday — Missouri at Colorado. It's the first in a series of big ones among the unbeaten top four.

Nebraska is ranked No. 7 nationally, Colorado No. 8, Missouri fans wonder why newsmen haven't voted their Tigers in the top 10, and Oklahoma fans will be wondering the same thing if OU beats Texas Saturday. K-State is at Iowa State and Nebraska at Kansas in other games.

It looks like a great four-team race now and things could really get wacky if spoilers like K-State and Oklahoma State turn an upset or two. Every weekend has a big one, with Colorado at Nebraska Oct. 21, Oklahoma at Missouri Oct. 28 and Colorado at Oklahoma Nov. 4.

Missouri's tough defense which begrudged just nine points to SMU, Northwestern and Arizona, could be a supreme test for Colorado, which ran over Iowa State 34-0. Clay Stapleton, in his 10th year as Iowa State coach, said "This is the best Colorado team I've ever seen."

Nebraska survived on a 31-yard field goal with 71 seconds left by sophomore Bill Bomberger, who had missed four straight in three games. It climaxed a last-ditch 17-play drive from the Nebraska 15, led by quarterback Frank Patrick and split end Dennis Richnafsky, who got the game ball for his school record 13 receptions good for 137 yards.

"This was another real great comeback," said Coach Bob Devaney. "It was a replica of the Missouri game two years ago at Columbia."

K-State turned a pair of fumbles, forced on vicious defensive play by tackle Bill Salat and safety Mitch Borota, into scoring drives for an early 14-0 lead.

"We didn't beat ourselves — Nebraska just beat us with execution," said Vince Gibson, new K-State coach. "I've coached a long time and I've never had a team give me four quarters of effort like that."

"This team doesn't have comparable personnel to our 1965 team," said Dan Devine, Missouri coach. After the '65 season, MU won the Sugar Bowl.

Missouri lost halfback Jon Staggers with a shoulder injury, but Colorado may have lost halfback John Farler with a leg injury at Boulder.

Quarterback Bob Anderson had 196 yards total offense for Colorado.

Ohio quarterback Cleve Bryant had 344 total offense, 265 by air, in an upset 30-15 victory over Kansas at Lawrence. Pepper Rodgers, new KU coach, said "Frank Broyles lost his first six at Arkansas — that keeps me going."

Oklahoma State, still without four injured offensive regulars, fell from the unbeaten ranks with a 19-0 loss at Texas, which struck twice early after OSU punts of 11 and 22 yards. Oklahoma had an open date.

K-State didn't stop after getting Nebraska down 14-0. On its next possession, K-State went to the Husker 11 with a 42-yard pass, Bill Nossek to Dave Jones. But Nebraska dug in and Mike Bruhin's field goal attempt barely missed. Then NU started its long, agonizing comeback.

"I thought K-State was going to run us out of the stadium the first quarter," Devaney said. "They are a well coached team."

K-State had several defensive heroes. End Bill Kennedy deflected a conversion kick to keep his team on top 14-13. Linebacker Danny Lankas had another outstanding game and Gibson said "He's an All America."

Gibson said Mike Goyne, defensive tackle, "really played a game today— they picked on him the first two games, but not today."

Missouri quarterback Gary Kombrink threw for 82 yards and ran for 17 despite being thrown for 38 yards in losses. Fullback Barry Lischner stomped 45 yards in 14 trips. But Devine wasn't happy that his club fumbled away two punts, one by Meyer setting up the Arizona field goal.

"Arizona was stronger physically than we were," Devine said.

Dawson Tosses for 5 TDs To Spark Chiefs' 41-0 Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Len Dawson, Kansas City's conservative quarterback, was at his ad lib best but Bob Scarpitto, Denver's impromptu punter, would have been better off sticking to his script.

Dawson hurled five touchdown passes, touching off the spree with a 77-yarder on a broken play, as the Chiefs bombed Miami 41-0 in the American Football League Sunday.

Scarpitto, trying to run from punting position on a fourth down, was swamred under by Buffalo defenders, giving the Bills possession and setting up Buffalo's 17-16 victory over Denver.

In Sunday's other game, San Diego rallied behind John Hadl for a 31-31 tie against Boston.

Saturday night, New York knocked off previously-unbeaten Oakland 27-14.

Dawson, the AFL's all-time leading passer, has often been criticized for sticking too firmly to the game plan and not innovating on plays.

Airman Watson, a supply inventory specialist, is a member of the Pacific air forces. Before his arrival in Thailand, he was assigned to Charleston Air Force Base, S.C.

His wife, Carol, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Drew of Lady's Island, Beaufort, S.C.

NEW DELHI (AP) - City officials recently boasted that New Delhi would have no power problems this summer.

The following Sunday and Monday the city's lights went out but officials explained the failures were at a supply station in Punjab State over which they had no control. On Tuesday the lights went out again, this time when a city station failed.

Two Fined $100 In Federal Court

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Fines of $100 each, plus a combined court cost of $35 were assessed two defendants appearing for arraignment this forenoon in federal district court on charges of transporting cattle across state lines without a certificate from a designated inspector or accredited veterinarian.

A. A. Cervantes III and Jimmy Sterling entered no contendery pleas prior to the passing of judgment by Judge James H. Meredith. James Haw of Charleston was attorney for the defendants.

Cervantes and Sterling stated they had health papers from a veterinarian showing the cattle were clean. But they had the papers on their person in their private automobile, they said. Driver of the truck had picked up the cattle.

The defendants claimed the truck had taken one route from Troy, Tenn., to East Prairie, Mo., and the automobile traveled another route. Therefore, the required certificate was not with the truck driver at the time the violation occurred.

Their attorney stressed they may have been guilty of violating a technicality, but not of the charge as it stood.

U.S. Attorney Veryl L. Riddle, formerly of Malden, made his first appearance in this court as the government's representative.

The court convened Friday to set the docket for the fall term which is to open in Common Pleas Courtroom at Common Pleas Courthouse Nov. 6.

Also appearing for arraignment was Joseph John Kramer of Chicago charged with interstate transportation of a stolen motor vehicle.

He entered a plea of innocent and Judge Meredith set the case for trial on Nov. 6 at 10 a.m.

Kramer's court-appointed attorney, Edward L. Eyerman of St. Louis, asked and was permitted to withdraw from the case.

Judge Meredith questioned the defendant as to his job and wages and was told by Kramer that his regular 40-hour salary is $169 per week.

The judge remarked that the court felt Kramer could afford to hire an attorney and instructed him to do so.

Winston V. Buford, an attorney from Eminence, was admitted to practice before the court. His admission was by motion by James Reeves of Caruthersville.

In other business, more than 25 civil cases were given trial dates.

Dear Harry:

Both of your letters were received. We had another hurricane scare but hurricane Fern (a small one) went into Mexico last night just below us.

The Valley is fast getting back to normal again and will be ready for our friends from the North this winter. The two checks, $10. each from S. F. Duckworth and Mrs. Jessie Yeakey were given to Mr. Guy Bevil, Director of our local Salvation Army.

We are looking for the clothing you are shipping to us. Words can not express our appreciation to you and the fine people of Missouri for their thoughtfulness and the money and clothing. Believe me, they are badly needed by so many of our people - many are downright pitiful.

I'll write you again. Sincerely and with thanks to God for people like you.

ARMED FORCES

Charleston Airman Now in Thailand

U.S. AIR FORCES, Thailand--Airman First Class David L. Watson, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Green of route one Charleston, Mo., is on duty at Takhli Royal Thai AFB, Thailand.

Airman Watson, a supply inventory specialist, is a member of the Pacific air forces. Before his arrival in Thailand, he was assigned to Charleston Air Force Base, S.C.

The airman, a 1963 graduate of Anniston, Mo., high school, attended Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau, Mo.

His wife, Carol, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Drew of Lady's Island, Beaufort, S.C.

NEW DELHI (AP) - City officials recently boasted that New Delhi would have no power problems this summer.

The following Sunday and Monday the city's lights went out but officials explained the failures were at a supply station in Punjab State over which they had no control. On Tuesday the lights went out again, this time when a city station failed.

Two Fined $100 In Federal Court

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Fines of $100 each, plus a combined court cost of $35 were assessed two defendants appearing for arraignment this forenoon in federal district court on charges of transporting cattle across state lines without a certificate from a designated inspector or accredited veterinarian.

A. A. Cervantes III and Jimmy Sterling entered no contendery pleas prior to the passing of judgment by Judge James H. Meredith. James Haw of Charleston was attorney for the defendants.

Cervantes and Sterling stated they had health papers from a veterinarian showing the cattle were clean. But they had the papers on their person in their private automobile, they said. Driver of the truck had picked up the cattle.

The defendants claimed the truck had taken one route from Troy, Tenn., to East Prairie, Mo., and the automobile traveled another route. Therefore, the required certificate was not with the truck driver at the time the violation occurred.

Their attorney stressed they may have been guilty of violating a technicality, but not of the charge as it stood.

U.S. Attorney Veryl L. Riddle, formerly of Malden, made his first appearance in this court as the government's representative.

The court convened Friday to set the docket for the fall term which is to open in Common Pleas Courtroom at Common Pleas Courthouse Nov. 6.

Also appearing for arraignment was Joseph John Kramer of Chicago charged with interstate transportation of a stolen motor vehicle.

He entered a plea of innocent and Judge Meredith set the case for trial on Nov. 6 at 10 a.m.

Kramer's court-appointed attorney, Edward L. Eyerman of St. Louis, asked and was permitted to withdraw from the case.

Judge Meredith questioned the defendant as to his job and wages and was told by Kramer that his regular 40-hour salary is $169 per week.

The judge remarked that the court felt Kramer could afford to hire an attorney and instructed him to do so.

Winston V. Buford, an attorney from Eminence, was admitted to practice before the court. His admission was by motion by James Reeves of Caruthersville.

In other business, more than 25 civil cases were given trial dates.

Letters to the Editor

Mr. Harry A. Buckles
309 W. Prairie
Sikeston, Mo.

Dear Harry:

Both of your letters were received. We had another hurricane scare but hurricane Fern (a small one) went into Mexico last night just below us.

The Valley is fast getting back to normal again and will be ready for our friends from the North this winter. The two checks, $10. each from S. F. Duckworth and Mrs. Jessie Yeakey were given to Mr. Guy Bevil, Director of our local Salvation Army.

We are looking for the clothing you are shipping to us. Words can not express our appreciation to you and the fine people of Missouri for their thoughtfulness and the money and clothing. Believe me, they are badly needed by so many of our people - many are downright pitiful.

I'll write you again. Sincerely and with thanks to God for people like you.

Boynton H. Fleming, Sheriff
Cameron County, Texas.

Nation Honors Newspapers

There are three or four hundred "weeks" in the year, and one of them is National Newspaper Week. It is the one week in the year when newspapers pause long enough to report to their readers some of their accomplishments, their hopes and purposes, and their roles in the social and economic life of their communities.

This week is being observed as National Newspaper Week and Saturday will be observed as International Newspaperboy Day to pay tribute to the young merchants who have one of the most important jobs in the newspaper production line and who, day after day in all kinds of weather, deliver the finished product to your doorstep.

"Newspapers Get Things Done" is the theme of National Newspaper Week, emphasizing the many activities in which newspapers are engaged in addition to gathering and distributing the news.

Since the first newspaper was published in the United States they have been "Freedon's Sentinels" by keeping a watchful eye on government, clarifying public issues, and using their influence as constructive forces for community growth and development.

Breath Tests Cause Drop In London Bar Business

LONDON (AP) -- Curbside breath tests to catch drunken drivers began today amid complaints from British motoring organizations and reports from bar owners of a sharp drop in business.

The tests were pushed by Transport Minister Barbara Castle, who had already irked drivers by clamping a 70-mile an-hour speed limit on the nation's previously unrestricted highways. Mrs. Castle does not drive.

London police with "breathalysers," plastic bags containing chemical crystals that change color when exposed to alcohol fumes, made their first test in front of Buckingham Palace, the Queen's home. The driver passed and was let go.

But for three of 13 other drivers who were stopped and asked to breathe into the bags during the night, the devices gave readings of more than 80 milligrams of alcohol per 100 milliliters of blood.

Under the new law, this means a trip to the police station for a blood or urine test. A too-high reading in these tests can be used as evidence in court.

Bars in many parts of Britain reported a sharp drop in business Sunday night. Traffic in London's normally busy West End nearly disappeared.

There was a surge of sales of soft drinks and beer and liquor to be taken home.

Motoring organizations have criticized the tests as inaccurate, claiming that the effects of alcohol vary in individuals according to age, weight, physical condition and other factors. One newspaper said even the vinegar on fish and chips could change the crystals from white to green.

Nation Honors Newspapers

There are three or four hundred "weeks" in the year, and one of them is National Newspaper Week. It is the one week in the year when newspapers pause long enough to report to their readers some of their accomplishments, their hopes and purposes, and their roles in the social and economic life of their communities.

This week is being observed as National Newspaper Week and Saturday will be observed as International Newspaperboy Day to pay tribute to the young merchants who have one of the most important jobs in the newspaper production line and who, day after day in all kinds of weather, deliver the finished product to your doorstep.

"Newspapers Get Things Done" is the theme of National Newspaper Week, emphasizing the many activities in which newspapers are engaged in addition to gathering and distributing the news.

Since the first newspaper was published in the United States they have been "Freedon's Sentinels" by keeping a watchful eye on government, clarifying public issues, and using their influence as constructive forces for community growth and development.

Good newspapers make good communities and vice versa.

Breath Tests Cause Drop In London Bar Business

LONDON (AP) -- Curbside breath tests to catch drunken drivers began today amid complaints from British motoring organizations and reports from bar owners of a sharp drop in business.

The tests were pushed by Transport Minister Barbara Castle, who had already irked drivers by clamping a 70-mile an-hour speed limit on the nation's previously unrestricted highways. Mrs. Castle does not drive.

London police with "breathalysers," plastic bags containing chemical crystals that change color when exposed to alcohol fumes, made their first test in front of Buckingham Palace, the Queen's home. The driver passed and was let go.

But for three of 13 other drivers who were stopped and asked to breathe into the bags during the night, the devices gave readings of more than 80 milligrams of alcohol per 100 milliliters of blood.

Under the new law, this means a trip to the police station for a blood or urine test. A too-high reading in these tests can be used as evidence in court.

Bars in many parts of Britain reported a sharp drop in business Sunday night. Traffic in London's normally busy West End nearly disappeared.

There was a surge of sales of soft drinks and beer and liquor to be taken home.

Motoring organizations have criticized the tests as inaccurate, claiming that the effects of alcohol vary in individuals according to age, weight, physical condition and other factors. One newspaper said even the vinegar on fish and chips could change the crystals from white to green.

Fourth Generation Coed at VMR Has Cosmopolitan Background

ROLLA, MO., -- To an 18-year old girl who has lived overseas all her life, the choice of a college in the States offers all sorts of fascinating possibilities.

For Miss Christie Arras, whose school record reads like a travel brochure, the decision was easy: she followed the tradition of women in her family and enrolled at the University of Missouri.

Christie is the fourth generation coed in her family to attend the former University of Missouri School of Mines and Metallurgy, which has traditionally had an almost all-male student body. There are now 5,000 students of whom 140 are women. Her mother, Jean Lloyd Arras, 1944, was Rolla's first woman electrical engineering graduate, and the first to be awarded the Tau Beta Pi honor society's women's badge. Her grandmother, Margaret McCaw Lloyd, attended briefly before marrying one of her professors, Samuel H. Lloyd, Jr., later chairman of the department of humanities. Christie's great grandmother, the late Blanche Owens McCaw, awoeoeoer Owens McCaw, was a student about the turn of the century.

"You might say I was brainwashed," says Christie, who plans to follow in her mother's footsteps and major in electrical engineering.

On the male side of the family, Christie's brother, Robert Arras, Jr., is following tradition, too, as a junior at Yale, his father's alma mater. Her younger brother is still in grade school, and hasn't decided which side to follow.

Christie is adjusting to life as a college freshman, and at the same time getting acquainted with her native country. With the exception of vacations and a six-month stay with her grandparents in Rolla during the Cuban revolution, Christie has lived abroad all her life. Her father, Robert Arras, Sr., is now president and managing director of the Chrysler Assembly Plant in Lima, Peru. There Christy spent her junior and senior years in high school, graduating near the top of her class at Franklin Delano Roosevelt High School, an American language school. Before that there was a year in Madrid, three and a half years in Panama, a year in Cuba, and ten years in Venezuela. Last year Christie took a year's post-high school student at The American School in Switzerland (TASIS), traveling widely behind the Iron Curtain and in the Common Market countries as part of her educational experiences.

CHRISTIE ARRAS, University of Missouri at Rolla freshman whose parents live in Lima, Peru, is welcomed by an old friend, Francisco Benavides, junior civil engineering student from Lima. Christie's mother, Jean Lloyd Arras, and Frank's father, Oscar, both UMR graduates, knew each other as students.

A petite blonde, Christie speaks with a delightful soft accent which gives a hint of her almost-native second language -- Spanish. She also speaks Italian and French.

Although for Christie, life on the international circuit was "normal," she has had a ringside seat at a few history-making episodes not exactly in the line of everyday occurrences for the average American girl.

For instance, there were revolutions in Venezuela and later in Cuba. She remembers vividly watching from her rooftop in Caracas when the deposed dictator Jimenez fled. The Arrases arrived in Havana at the time of Batista's downfall. When the Communist take-over became apparent, the children were sent to the States while their parents remained in Cuba until they were forced out along with other Americans. The trouble that culminated in the pulling down of the American flag in Panama was brewing during their stay there.

Christie anticipates that life in Rolla should be somewhat less unsettled politically, at least, and is looking forward to living in her own country and to education American style.

"I've always heard that to have a really well-rounded education, a girl should spend some time studying abroad," Christie quips. "For me, 'abroad' is the States, and what could be more American than a small midwestern college town?"

She is enrolled in the usual freshman course for electrical engineers, with strong emphasis on mathematics. She lives with 13 other women in the Thomas Jefferson, a privately-owned coeducational dormitory.

Christie has few qualms about her status as one of the feminine minority, but like most freshmen, she's facing the mathematics courses required for her major with some concern and a lot of determination. So far she couldn't be happier with her choice of a field of study or university.

"Everyone at Rolla has been muy simpatico," she says.

702,463 at Mid-South 1967 Fair

MEMPHIS - Plans already are underway for the 1968 Mid-South Fair while the memory of a record attendance of 702,463 at the 1967 fair is still sweet.

T. Wilson Sparks was in his first year as general manager and commented that "I couldn't have been any more pleased with the way this year's Fair went.

Miss Lynn Littlejohn of Coldwater, Miss., clicked a turnstile at 4:16 p.m., Sept. 30 and she was met by photographers, reporters and fair officials. The 20-year-old senior at Delta State College in Cleveland, Miss., was the 660,444th visitor to the Fair and that broke the 1966 record of 660,443. By the midnight closing, 105,231 people had passed through the gates which sent the total to a record 702,463 for the nine days.

Miss Debbie McGahhey, a 16-year old DeWitt, Ark., soprano, captured the Grand Finals award in the Youth Talent Contest.

Mrs. Gerald Simmons of Jonesboro, Ark., won the adult division of the first annual Sew With Cotton Contest and received $100 from the Southern Cotton Ginners Association which co-sponsored the contest with the Fair. May Ruth Richardson of Paris, Tenn., was the junior winner. She received a gold watch.

The trophy in the Cheerleaders Contest went to Bartlett high school.

The Cape Girardeau, Mo., team was among winning teams in the livestock division of 4-H champions.

Car Topics

If the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty To Cars (SPCC) could ever get all its members together for a convention, and if they ever were to put the subject to a vote, probably everybody would agree that the most cruel thing you can do to your automobile is to spin one wheel on ice until it suddenly hits a dry spot.

Then it's "Screech" as your tire digs in, or "Snap" as something lets go. With as much as several hundred horsepower pushing, something has to go.

Today's cars are built to withstand a lot of punishment, but this particular stunt is especially cruel. Some drivers have the idea that if they can't get off ice or out of a rut by spinning their wheels at half speed, they just might be able to scare the car out by gunning the engine. But they couldn't hurt the car more if they got out and beat on the hood with the jack handle.

Your car has delicate parts that transmit power from the engine to the wheels. The universal joint, for example, is a sort of swivel arrangement on the driveshaft that compensates for the various angles the driveshaft assumes as the rear wheels move up and down. It twists 28 million times in 10,000 miles.

Universal joints wear out eventually, just like any other constantly moving part, but you can anticipate this by taking two precautions.

First, have them lubricated at least every two years, at which time your mechanic should shake them to see if they are loose.

Second, every now and then try this do-it yourself test in your own driveway. For an automatic transmission, with your emergency brake on, shift from drive to reverse and back again, and see if you hear a little "Clunk" each time you shift. That "Clunk" could be excessive slack in a loose universal joint, which can be the beginning of the end.

The same test can be made with a standard transmission, shifting from low to reverse and engaging the clutch slightly with each shift. Simple? Yes, indeed. And how much better to catch problems like this in your own driveway than to let them catch you goodness knows where.

Renew Dexter Hospital Drive

DEXTER -- It was announced by directors of The Dexter memorial hospital, that the raising for the additonal $115,000 needed to complete the financing of the construction and equipping of the hospital is underway.

This is a continuation of the campaign started the first of the year when $230,000 was needed at that time, John William Ringer, president of the board, stated. During the summer months, few new or additional pledges have been made, and the campaign is now being launched to raise the $115,000.

C. C. Shell, hospital board member, and Bob Robins, have been named as co-chairmen of the final phase of this campaign. Robins will handle the organizational work of the drive. It was decided by the board not to hire a fund raiser and to have a concentrated volunteer effort of the community to meet this amount.

Construction on the hospital is 60 per cent completed and the hospital is expected to be ready for occupancy by the first of April or May.

The hospital administrator Harry L. Chrisman, who was hired the first of Sept. has been working on the equipment list for the hospital, interviewing personnel, and working on other aspects of the hospital.

It is hoped by the board that the community will feel its responsibility and help raise this $115,000 to complete the financing of the long needed hospital.

NEVER SMOKE IN BED

If you are a smoker, or if there are smokers in your house, heed this warning of the American Insurance Association.

Never smoke in bed.

Too many persons lose their lives when they doze off while smoking and the bedding catches fire, says the Association.

Elderly persons who are forgetful should be reminded periodically of the danger of smoking in bed. A fire started in bed could take the lives of other members of the family, as well as their own - as well as damage or destroy the home.

Judge Opens Up Juvenile Court

KENNETT --- A juvenile who gets into trouble in Stoddard or Dunklin County can expect to do some reading and a lot of writing -- reading his name in the local newspaper and writing 1,000-word essays.

The publicity being given to juvenile misdeeds in the two counties, comprising the 35th judicial circuit, is part of the no-secrecy policy of Judge Wm. H. Billings, who since he came to the bench last November has opened nearly all juvenile records for public inspection.

The essay writing is one way Judge Billings has of dealing with youthful offenders. He also - as the occasion demands it - requires youths to cut their hair, stay in school, attend church, avoid certain companions, give up their driving privileges and in the extreme, serve sentences in one of the state training schools.

But the judge, who before his appointment to succeed the late Judge Arthur U. Goodman was a practicing attorney in Kennett, has attracted the most attention with his open court - open records policy with regard to juvenile crime.

When a juvenile - that's anyone under 17 - is charged with delinquency in the 35th circuit, he appears before Judge Billings in open court. Anyone can attend, the proceedings can be fully reported by the press and the records are open to public inspection.

This applies, the judge explained, to cases of anyone over 10 who has committed a law violation.

Judge Billings also has authorized law enforcement agencies within the circuit to disclose the names of juviniles alleged to have committed an offense.

Judge Billings' approach to the question of juvenile crime and publicity is unusual.

Elsewhere, juvenile court is held behind closed doors, and names of delinquents are made public only at the pleasure of the judge.

Malden Family Robbed of $400

MALDEN -- A Malden family was robbed of $400 about 12 p.m. Thursday when two men, posing as surveyors, came to their home and lured them into their backyard.

Malden police said that the J. H. Ratcliff family went into their backyard when two men, both between 50 and 60 years of age, one tall in stature and wearing a white cowboy hat, the other wearing a narrow brimmed hat and of medium build, began questioning them about their property. Both were wearing white shirts and dark trousers.

While being questioned by one of the men, the other man apparently slipped away from the group and ransacked the house taking the money.

Malden authorites said the two men were last seen driving an old model black pickup truck. The Missouri Highway Patrol is working in conjunction with the Malden authorities.

Fourth Generation Coed at VMR Has Cosmopolitan Background

ROLLA, MO., -- To an 18-year old girl who has lived overseas all her life, the choice of a college in the States offers all sorts of fascinating possibilities.

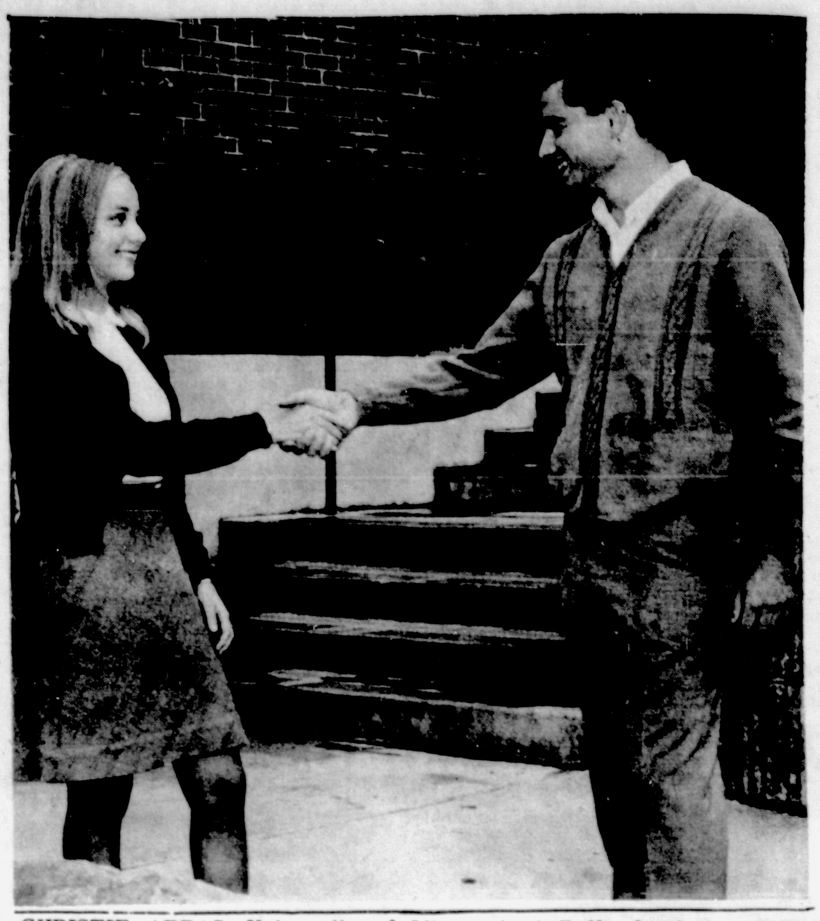
For Miss Christie Arras, whose school record reads like a travel brochure, the decision was easy: she followed the tradition of women in her family and enrolled at the University of Missouri.

Christie is the fourth generation coed in her family to attend the former University of Missouri School of Mines and Metallurgy, which has traditionally had an almost all-male student body. There are now 5,000 students of whom 140 are women. Her mother, Jean Lloyd Arras, 1944, was Rolla's first woman electrical engineering graduate, and the first to be awarded the Tau Beta Pi honor society's women's badge. Her grandmother, Margaret McCaw Lloyd, attended briefly before marrying one of her professors, Samuel H. Lloyd, Jr., later chairman of the department of humanities. Christie's great grandmother, the late Blanche Owens McCaw, awoeoeoer Owens McCaw, was a student about the turn of the century.

"You might say I was brainwashed," says Christie, who plans to follow in her mother's footsteps and major in electrical engineering.

On the male side of the family, Christie's brother, Robert Arras, Jr., is following tradition, too, as a junior at Yale, his father's alma mater. Her younger brother is still in grade school, and hasn't decided which side to follow.

Christie is adjusting to life as a college freshman, and at the same time getting acquainted with her native country. With the exception of vacations and a six-month stay with her grandparents in Rolla during the Cuban revolution, Christie has lived abroad all her life. Her father, Robert Arras, Sr., is now president and managing director of the Chrysler Assembly Plant in Lima, Peru. There Christy spent her junior and senior years in high school, graduating near the top of her class at Franklin Delano Roosevelt High School, an American language school. Before that there was a year in Madrid, three and a half years in Panama, a year in Cuba, and ten years in Venezuela. Last year Christie took a year's post-high school student at The American School in Switzerland (TASIS), traveling widely behind the Iron Curtain and in the Common Market countries as part of her educational experiences.



CHRISTIE ARRAS, University of Missouri at Rolla freshman whose parents live in Lima, Peru, is welcomed by an old friend, Francisco Benavides, junior civil engineering student from Lima. Christie's mother, Jean Lloyd Arras, and Frank's father, Oscar, both UMR graduates, knew each other as students.

A petite blonde, Christie speaks with a delightful soft accent which gives a hint of her almost-native second language -- Spanish. She also speaks Italian and French.

Although for Christie, life on the international circuit was "normal," she has had a ringside seat at a few history-making episodes not exactly in the line of everyday occurrences for the average American girl.

For instance, there were revolutions - in Venezuela and later in Cuba. She remembers vividly watching from her rooftop in Caracas when the deposed dictator Jimenez fled. The Arrases arrived in Havana at the time of Batista's downfall. When the Communist take-over became apparent, the children were sent to the States while their parents remained in Cuba until they were forced out along with other Americans. The trouble that culminated in the pulling down of the American flag in Panama was brewing during their stay there.

Christie anticipates that life in Rolla should be somewhat less unsettled politically, at least, and is looking forward to living in her own country and to education American style.

"I've always heard that to have a really well-rounded education, a girl should spend some time studying abroad," Christie quips. "For me, 'abroad' is the States, and what could be more American than a small midwestern college town?"

She is enrolled in the usual freshman course for electrical engineers, with strong emphasis on mathematics. She lives with 13 other women in the Thomas Jefferson, a privately-owned coeducational dormitory.

Christie has few qualms about her status as one of the feminine minority, but like most freshmen, she's facing the mathematics courses required for her major with some concern and a lot of determination. So far she couldn't be happier with her choice of a field of study or university.

"Everyone at Rolla has been muy simpatico," she says.

702,463 at Mid-South 1967 Fair

MEMPHIS - Plans already are underway for the 1968 Mid-South Fair while the memory of a record attendance of 702,463 at the 1967 fair is still sweet.

T. Wilson Sparks was in his first year as general manager and commented that "I couldn't have been any more pleased with the way this year's Fair went.

Miss Lynn Littlejohn of Coldwater, Miss., clicked a turnstile at 4:16 p.m., Sept. 30 and she was met by photographers, reporters and fair officials. The 20-year-old senior at Delta State College in Cleveland, Miss., was the 660,444th visitor to the Fair and that broke the 1966 record of 660,443. By the midnight closing, 105,231 people had passed through the gates which sent the total to a record 702,463 for the nine days.

Miss Debbie McGahhey, a 16-year old DeWitt, Ark., soprano, captured the Grand Finals award in the Youth Talent Contest.

Mrs. Gerald Simmons of Jonesboro, Ark., won the adult division of the first annual Sew With Cotton Contest and received $100 from the Southern Cotton Ginners Association which co-sponsored the contest with the Fair. May Ruth Richardson of Paris, Tenn., was the junior winner. She received a gold watch.

The trophy in the Cheerleaders Contest went to Bartlett high school.

The Cape Girardeau, Mo., team was among winning teams in the livestock division of 4-H champions.

Car Topics

If the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty To Cars (SPCC) could ever get all its members together for a convention, and if they ever were to put the subject to a vote, probably everybody would agree that the most cruel thing you can do to your automobile is to spin one wheel on ice until it suddenly hits a dry spot.

Then it's "Screech" as your tire digs in, or "Snap" as something lets go. With as much as several hundred horsepower pushing, something has to go.

Today's cars are built to withstand a lot of punishment, but this particular stunt is especially cruel. Some drivers have the idea that if they can't get off ice or out of a rut by spinning their wheels at half speed, they just might be able to scare the car out by gunning the engine. But they couldn't hurt the car more if they got out and beat on the hood with the jack handle.

Your car has delicate parts that transmit power from the engine to the wheels. The universal joint, for example, is a sort of swivel arrangement on the driveshaft that compensates for the various angles the driveshaft assumes as the rear wheels move up and down. It twists 28 million times in 10,000 miles.

Universal joints wear out eventually, just like any other constantly moving part, but you can anticipate this by taking two precautions.

First, have them lubricated at least every two years, at which time your mechanic should shake them to see if they are loose.

Second, every now and then try this do-it yourself test in your own driveway. For an automatic transmission, with your emergency brake on, shift from drive to reverse and back again, and see if you hear a little "Clunk" each time you shift. That "Clunk" could be excessive slack in a loose universal joint, which can be the beginning of the end.

The same test can be made with a standard transmission, shifting from low to reverse and engaging the clutch slightly with each shift. Simple? Yes, indeed. And how much better to catch problems like this in your own driveway than to let them catch you goodness knows where.

Renew Dexter Hospital Drive

DEXTER -- It was announced by directors of The Dexter memorial hospital, that the raising for the additonal $115,000 needed to complete the financing of the construction and equipping of the hospital is underway.

This is a continuation of the campaign started the first of the year when $230,000 was needed at that time, John William Ringer, president of the board, stated. During the summer months, few new or additional pledges have been made, and the campaign is now being launched to raise the $115,000.

C. C. Shell, hospital board member, and Bob Robins, have been named as co-chairmen of the final phase of this campaign. Robins will handle the organizational work of the drive. It was decided by the board not to hire a fund raiser and to have a concentrated volunteer effort of the community to meet this amount.

Construction on the hospital is 60 per cent completed and the hospital is expected to be ready for occupancy by the first of April or May.

The hospital administrator Harry L. Chrisman, who was hired the first of Sept. has been working on the equipment list for the hospital, interviewing personnel, and working on other aspects of the hospital.

It is hoped by the board that the community will feel its responsibility and help raise this $115,000 to complete the financing of the long needed hospital.

Mr. M. R. Chambers, Chairman of the Board and President of INTERCO INCROPORATED and Mr. Loren B. Weber, Chairman and Mr. Samuel S. NEVER SMOKE IN BED

If you are a smoker, or if there are smokers in your house, heed this warning of the American Insurance Association.

Never smoke in bed.

Too many persons lose their lives when they doze off while smoking and the bedding catches fire, says the Association.

Elderly persons who are forgetful should be reminded periodically of the danger of smoking in bed. A fire started in bed could take the lives of other members of the family, as well as their own - as well as damage or destroy the home.

Judge Opens Up Juvenile Court

KENNETT --- A juvenile who gets into trouble in Stoddard or Dunklin County can expect to do some reading and a lot of writing -- reading his name in the local newspaper and writing 1,000-word essays.

The publicity being given to juvenile misdeeds in the two counties, comprising the 35th judicial circuit, is part of the no-secrecy policy of Judge Wm. H. Billings, who since he came to the bench last November has opened nearly all juvenile records for public inspection.

The essay writing is one way Judge Billings has of dealing with youthful offenders. He also - as the occasion demands it - requires youths to cut their hair, stay in school, attend church, avoid certain companions, give up their driving privileges and in the extreme, serve sentences in one of the state training schools.

But the judge, who before his appointment to succeed the late Judge Arthur U. Goodman was a practicing attorney in Kennett, has attracted the most attention with his open court - open records policy with regard to juvenile crime.

When a juvenile - that's anyone under 17 - is charged with delinquency in the 35th circuit, he appears before Judge Billings in open court. Anyone can attend, the proceedings can be fully reported by the press and the records are open to public inspection.

This applies, the judge explained, to cases of anyone over 10 who has committed a law violation.

Judge Billings also has authorized law enforcement agencies within the circuit to disclose the names of juviniles alleged to have committed an offense.

Judge Billings' approach to the question of juvenile crime and publicity is unusual.

Elsewhere, juvenile court is held behind closed doors, and names of delinquents are made public only at the pleasure of the judge.

Malden Family Robbed of $400

MALDEN -- A Malden family was robbed of $400 about 12 p.m. Thursday when two men, posing as surveyors, came to their home and lured them into their backyard.

Malden police said that the J. H. Ratcliff family went into their backyard when two men, both between 50 and 60 years of age, one tall in stature and wearing a white cowboy hat, the other wearing a narrow brimmed hat and of medium build, began questioning them about their property. Both were wearing white shirts and dark trousers.

While being questioned by one of the men, the other man apparently slipped away from the group and ransacked the house taking the money.

Malden authorites said the two men were last seen driving an old model black pickup truck. The Missouri Highway Patrol is working in conjunction with the Malden authorities.

Begonias From Seeds

The ever-popular, ever-blooming begonia is shown above. It's a practically perfect house plant as are also the newer hybrid begonias. Both types may be grown from seeds. Catalogs list varieties Christmas Cheer, White Christmas, Carmen, Prima Donna, Christmas Candle and a few others, all beautiful.

The gardener who wants his window sills colorful all winter with lots of flowering plants will do well to consider begonias from seeds — both the well-known everblooming begonia and the newer hybrids. Blossoms of the hybrids are larger and colors vary throughout a greater range.

Begonia seeds are fine as dust. There are over 2 million of them in a single ounce.

Because of their minute size the mixture in which they are planted must be ultra fine in texture. Half vermiculite and half milled sphagnum moss or half vermiculite and half finely ground neutral peat moss are both recommended for seed sowing.

Fill flower pots, wooden flats or similar well-drained containers with whichever mixture you select. Firm with the palm of your hand, water, then merely scatter the seeds over the surface. Do not cover them. Settle them in place with a fine spray of water and pop containers into plastic refrigerator bags.

Set these where the temperature is from 60 to 65 degrees and check them occasionally to be sure the planting mixture is moist. By the end of about 2 weeks many seedlings will have sprouted. Then move containers to an east window.

As soon as the seedlings reach handleable size transplant them to 2 or 2½-inch flower pots filled with half peat and half good garden soil. Keep them growing at 60 degrees, away from hot sun. Water as needed.

Every 10th day follow the watering with a weak solution of a soluble fertilizer and see how beautifully your begonias will grow and bloom for you all winter.

Droves of Arabs crossed to the Jordanian eastern bank after the war, but only a few have been allowed to return to their homes on the Israeli-held side.

Begonias From Seeds

The ever-popular, ever-blooming begonia is shown above. It's a practically perfect house plant as are also the newer hybrid begonias. Both types may be grown from seeds. Catalogs list varieties Christmas Cheer, White Christmas, Carmen, Prima Donna, Christmas Candle and a few others, all beautiful.

The gardener who wants his window sills colorful all winter with lots of flowering plants will do well to consider begonias from seeds — both the well-known everblooming begonia and the newer hybrids. Blossoms of the hybrids are larger and colors vary throughout a greater range.

Begonia seeds are fine as dust. There are over 2 million of them in a single ounce.

Because of their minute size the mixture in which they are planted must be ultra fine in texture. Half vermiculite and half milled sphagnum moss or half vermiculite and half finely ground neutral peat moss are both recommended for seed sowing.

Fill flower pots, wooden flats or similar well-drained containers with whichever mixture you select. Firm with the palm of your hand, water, then merely scatter the seeds over the surface. Do not cover them. Settle them in place with a fine spray of water and pop containers into plastic refrigerator bags.

Set these where the temperature is from 60 to 65 degrees and check them occasionally to be sure the planting mixture is moist. By the end of about 2 weeks many seedlings will have sprouted. Then move containers to an east window.

As soon as the seedlings reach handleable size transplant them to 2 or 2½-inch flower pots filled with half peat and half good garden soil. Keep them growing at 60 degrees, away from hot sun. Water as needed.

Every 10th day follow the watering with a weak solution of a soluble fertilizer and see how beautifully your begonias will grow and bloom for you all winter.

SPIRIT OF '76—A patriotic color scheme is carried out in this boy's room with match-mated cotton fabrics and wallpaper setting the theme. Box-pleated cafe curtains in the print are keyed to solid colored shades trimmed in white rope. The same print covers pillow bolsters on the white-framed beds topped by fitted coverlets of navy quilted cotton. Fabrics by Waverly.

TWO YOUNG ARABS, who are not convinced of the good intentions of an Israeli soldier, get an assist in crossing the wrecked Ailenby Bridge to the western bank of the Jordan River. The youngsters were among 200 refugees allowed to return home recently after they were termed "hardship cases." Droves of Arabs crossed to the Jordanian eastern bank after the war, but only a few have been allowed to return to their homes on the Israeli-held side.

TREAD WEAR indicators, a standard safety feature on new car tires, are being put into replacement tires as soon as possible, according to the Rubber Manufacturers Association. The new safety device shows a smooth bar across the tire tread at several points when the tire has worn down to the danger point and should be replaced.

THE CITY OF SIKESTON,
MISSOURI
Resolution

A resolution declaring the necessity for the construction of concrete curb and gutters on Benton Street from Warner Street to East Street, in accordance with plans and specifications, in the City of Sikeston, Missouri; stating the nature of the improvement; the estimated cost and providing that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills levied and assessed against the abutting property. Be it resolved by the Council of the City of Sikeston, State of Missouri, as follows: SECTION 1: That the Council of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said Street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the City of Sikeston. SECTION 2: That the nature and scope of the improvement shall consist of furnishing all cost, including labor, materials and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. SECTION 3: That the estimated cost of the improvement is $1.65 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement. Mrs. Anna Ward Entertains at Party

50 years ago
October 9, 1917

Mrs. Anna Ward entertained a few of her friends Wednesday night with a Hallowe'en party. The guests were: The Misses Corine Tompaw, Esther Ferrell, Hattie Andres, Dorothy Robertson, and Messrs. John Mayse, John Andres, Will Robertson, Leroy Blace, Geroge Barger, J. R. Swaim, Will Ellis and J. Crowel. Mrs. Ward will leave Saturday afternoon to join her husband at Trenton, Ill., where they will make their future home.

It has been whispered around Sikeston for a long time that Amos Buchanan and Neal Kornegger had been spending many sleepless nights endeavoring how to solve the problem of matrimony. Last Friday while the Misses Ruth Hill and Laura Donahew were attending the teachers meeting at Cape, the young men hied themselves to that city and so successfully pressed their love suits, that each brought home a bride. Mr. Buchanan was married to Miss Ruth Hill, while Mr. Kornegger claimed Miss Laura as his bride.

Sikeston High School notes. The senior class of '18 purchased, through the Citizens Bank of Sikeston, a $50 Liberty Bond. The bond is to be paid for from the proceeds of the senior play and senior supper. The class will turn the bond over to the school board and they will buy two books each year with the interest and use the principal thinks best when it becomes due.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Smith, formerly of Sikeston, but now of Manila, Ark., are parents of a girl.

Miss Mildred Stubblefield entertained at bridge Thursday evening.

Thomas Levan, aged 70 years, died at his home in Sikeston last Sunday and the body was taken to Charleston for interment.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Cathey from the Canalou neighborhood, were business visitors in Sikeston Thursday forenoon. Very lettle cotton has been picked with them, but that of a good quality. A few weeks of sunshine is what they need.

Work on the Cairo-Missouri bridge has been halted to some extent on account of the rapid rise in the river. Three weeks ago there was no water under the tramway, but water now flows the entire distance. Driftwood threatened the high tramway last week and threw a section of piling out of line.

Teenage Girl Discovers Best Friend is Deviate

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 16-year-old girl who has a problem that is too big for me. I don't know quite how to say this so I will come right out in plain English and tell you that my best friend is a lesbian.

Elsie (which is not her name) moved to our neighborhood last December. She was almost two years older than I but we got along fine. When she began to buy me gifts I felt uncomfortable and told her to please stop, but she kept buying things anyway. When she started telephoning every night to find out what I was doing the next day so she could chauffeur me, that really made me uneasy.

My mother asked several questions about Elsie which should have opened my eyes, but I was too dumb to catch on. Mom wondered why Elsie never had a date, why she seemed so possessive of me and why she was so critical of every fellow I went out with.

Last week Elsie slept at my house and I learned the truth. I was dumbfounded and I'm still in a daze. Now I wonder if people think something is wrong with me, too, because I have been so chummy with her.

I hate to be cruel but I don't want Elsie as a best friend anymore. Will you please give me a few facts on this subject. It is all such a mystery to me. Should I tell my mother?----- shook up

Dear Shook: There is no need to tell anyone. Cool the friendship and see Elsie only when others are present. Don't accept any more gifts from her and don't allow her to drive you any place.

Try to understand that the girl's deviate behavior is a result of an emotional illness. She did not choose to be this way. Some lesbians are content, others lead lonely and tortured lives. I always recommend psychiatric help when such people write to me. Although counseling rarely sets them straight, it gives them insight and it helps them to accept themselves.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 60. My husband is 62. For the last 40 years Egbert has gone fishing or hunting every weekend plus every day he has not had to work. Birthdays, anniversaries, graduations, weddings, church, meant nothing to him. Camping came first, so I accepted the idea and never complained because I knew he loved camping so.

Now that the children are gone Egbert wants me to go camping with him. I have tried to be a good sport but I don't enjoy it one bit. I have gone on a few camping trips and it was such hard work I had to go to bed for two days when we got home. Loading and unloading camping gear, cooking, diswashing, fighting insects and lestening to animals howl all night is not my idea of relaxation. I would rather stay at home (where I have good plumbing) and work in my garden.

Egbert is sulking now because I have refused to go with him this weekend. Do you feel I should force myself to go just to be a good wife, as he says? - - - TIRED BONES

Dear Bones: No. You have been a good wife for 40 years by allowing Egbert to put camping ahead of everything. Now let him be a good husband and respect your need for comfort.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

If You Were The Judge

Former Nazi Denied Citizenship in U.S.A.

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Although Otto was born and bred in the United States, he decided to give up his U.S. citizenship to become a member of the Nazi Party in Germany prior to World War II. After the Nazis lost the war, however, Otto decided that his decision to goose step had been a misstep and hurried back to the United States where he renewed his residence and, after a respectable length of time, applied to become a naturalized citizen.

"Sorry," he was told. "But, when you decided to follow the Furhrer in his furor, you gave up all chances of ever becoming a citizen again."

"That's not fair," was Otto's answer. "World War II has been over a long time. Even the U.S. Government recognizes that bygones should be bygones. The fact is, despite my allegiance to Nazi Germany, I've always believed in the United States constitution and the American way. And, since I've returned, I've repented my mistake and I've been a model citizen."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you bless Otto with U.S. citizenship?

This is how the judge ruled: No! The judge held Otto was unreliable untrustworthy and untruthful. As example, the Judge pointed out, it was impossible for him to have honestly been a Nazi and a beliver in the U. S. constitution at the same time since the principals and ideology of each were obviously and totally imcompatable. Loyalty to both could not possibly have abided in the same man at the same time. (Based upon a 1961 U.S. District Court Decision)

TODAY'S LEGAL POINTER:

An agreement cannot be enforced if it's too vague. As example, if a potential employer offers you $100 a week in salary plus a "fair share" of the profits of the business at the end of the year, "fair share" is too vague a term to be enforceable. Watch out for these vague terms when entering into employment contracts and other deals.

WASHINGTON

National Newspaper Week reminds us all of the historic value and vitality of our cherished freedom of the press. And more than that, it focuses on the irreplaceable role which our newspapers have played, for two and a half centuries, in serving and safeguarding that freedom.

For our papers are more than just an expression of an unfettered press: they are the unsleeping sentinels of all freedoms. They are ready, simultaneous interpreters between the government and the people. Their freedom to publish is our freedom to interpret -- and both incur the responsibility and honor vital to the success of the democratic society that is our way of life.

In our nation, which spreads so far and wide across both continent and sea, newspapers have unparalleled power and significance. They are nerve centers of information and of action. They are educators, counselors, entertainers and community servants. They carry forward the principles that gave our nation life -- and they enrich that life by provoking and marshalling the thoughts, talents, and energies of Americans everywhere toward the promise of growing fulfillment. I know that all my fellow citizens join with me in traditional salute to their indispensable service.

Playboy Tommy Manville Dies

NEW YORK (AP) - Tommy Manville, playboy of the Roaring 20's and Depression 30's whose marriages and monetary settlements made headlines for almost five decades, died Sunday of a heart attack. He was 73.

With him at the end was his 11th and last wife, the former Christina Erdlen, 26, at their Westchester County residence in Chappaqua, some 30 miles north of Manhattan.

Manville took his first wife, a chorus girl, in 1911 when he was 17, and his last in 1960. He remarried twice, was divorced 10 times, and widowed once. He was heir to a $10 million asbestos fortune, and his divorce settlements cost him in the neighborhood of $1.5 million.

"Marrying Manville' was no misnomer for the son of the founder and chairman of the Johns-Manville Corp. He had a decided, and oft-announced, penchant for showgirls, squiring dozens and marrying five of them.

Manville, during his hectic nightclubbing and pursuit of beautiful women, once said, "I'm too lonely-I just can't live alone. . .The first thing I say to a girl is 'Will you marry me' and the second thing is 'How do you do?"

as head of the science department at Kemper. He later became assistant dean and dean retiring in 1967. He was made an honorary colonel of the school and was listed in Who's Who in American education.

A member of the Nelson Methodist church, he was a member of all bodies of the Masonic Order, and Order of Eastern Star, as well as a member of the Rotary club.

Other survivors are one daughter, Mrs. John Giddens, St. Joseph; and three grandchildren.

Services will be Tuesday in the Nelson Memorial Methodist church, with the Rev. Charles Burner, officiating.

Burial will be in the Walnut Grove cemetery, with the William Wood Funeral Home in charge.

The court made no comment in turning down a plea by attorneys for the publishing firm for a new hearing.

The award, upheld by a 5-4 vote, was based on a March 23, 1963, article in The Saturday Evening Post.

TV Going In for More Shock Stuff

NEW YORK (AP) — Over the years, most viewers have grown accustomed to television fights— the hand-to-hand battles that finally end when the battered hero summons strength for one roundhouse punch— or lately, a short judo chop to the back of the villain's neck. Mostly, we watch with bored, callous indifference.

We seem to react these days with a yawn when the good soldiers fire a burst of machine-gun bullets and the bad guys— usually Nazis— fall dead over a convenient log.

But it seems now that the recipe for keeping the viewers tuned in— or maybe just awake— is to load the shows with a little more off-beat violence, a little more shock stuff. Sunday night, for example, "High Chaparral" on NBC recorded in detail the scene of a man with a broken leg having it set without anesthetics. This included closeups of his face wreathed in pain and of the damaged leg— all in living color.

This proved painful to the squeamish viewer, and the logical move was to CBS for "Mission: Impossible." There one found that, for no imperceptible demands from the plot, bats were deliberately unleashed in the bedroom of a sleeping couple.

The result was, of course, screams of horror and much running around. After sufficient time had elapsed, the disturbance was used to cover the kidnaping of the woman while her frightened husband was still brushing bats out of his hair.

If the nefarious villains of this piece had dreamed up this improbable diversionary tactic it would have been bad enough, but in this case the clever scheme was hatched by the white hats of the series.

Earlier in the day in a network broadcast of a irofessional football game, two players were knocked out in a play. In past seasons, it usually seemed that the cameras turned away from injuries in almost unseemly haste, picking up the contretemps only when the injured player was being helped off the field.

In the Sunday broadcast, however, the camera lingered on the two prone figures and seemed to cut away almost reluctantly.

All this was by way of almost ironic contrast to Friday night's NBC special program, "Raymond Burr Visits Vietnam." It was a low key, warm and affectionate report, almost a travelogue, about a nation involved in a war.

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

National Newspaper Week reminds us all of the historic value and vitality of our cherished freedom of the press. And more than that, it focuses on the irreplaceable role which our newspapers have played, for two and a half centuries, in serving and safeguarding that freedom.

For our papers are more than just an expression of an unfettered press: they are the unsleeping sentinels of all freedoms. They are ready, simultaneous interpreters between the government and the people. Their freedom to publish is our freedom to interpret -- and both incur the responsibility and honor vital to the success of the democratic society that is our way of life.

In our nation, which spreads so far and wide across both continent and sea, newspapers have unparalleled power and significance. They are nerve centers of information and of action. They are educators, counselors, entertainers and community servants. They carry forward the principles that gave our nation life -- and they enrich that life by provoking and marshalling the thoughts, talents, and energies of Americans everywhere toward the promise of growing fulfillment. I know that all my fellow citizens join with me in traditional salute to their indispensable service.

Playboy Tommy Manville Dies

NEW YORK (AP) - Tommy Manville, playboy of the Roaring 20's and Depression 30's whose marriages and monetary settlements made headlines for almost five decades, died Sunday of a heart attack. He was 73.

With him at the end was his 11th and last wife, the former Christina Erdlen, 26, at their Westchester County residence in Chappaqua, some 30 miles north of Manhattan.

Manville took his first wife, a chorus girl, in 1911 when he was 17, and his last in 1960. He remarried twice, was divorced 10 times, and widowed once. He was heir to a $10 million asbestos fortune, and his divorce settlements cost him in the neighborhood of $1.5 million.

"Marrying Manville' was no misnomer for the son of the founder and chairman of the Johns-Manville Corp. He had a decided, and oft-announced, penchant for showgirls, squiring dozens and marrying five of them.

Manville, during his hectic nightclubbing and pursuit of beautiful women, once said, "I'm too lonely-I just can't live alone. . .The first thing I say to a girl is 'Will you marry me' and the second thing is 'How do you do?"

Libel Judgment For Butts Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court refused today to reconsider its June 12 decision upholding a $460,000 libel judgment won by Wallace Butts, former athletic director at the University of Georgia, against the Curtis Publishing Co.

The court made no comment in turning down a plea by attorneys for the publishing firm for a new hearing.

The award, upheld by a 5-4 vote, was based on a March 23, 1963, article in The Saturday Evening Post.

TV Going In for More Shock Stuff

NEW YORK (AP) — Over the years, most viewers have grown accustomed to television fights— the hand-to-hand battles that finally end when the battered hero summons strength for one roundhouse punch— or lately, a short judo chop to the back of the villain's neck. Mostly, we watch with bored, callous indifference.

We seem to react these days with a yawn when the good soldiers fire a burst of machine-gun bullets and the bad guys— usually Nazis— fall dead over a convenient log.

But it seems now that the recipe for keeping the viewers tuned in— or maybe just awake— is to load the shows with a little more off-beat violence, a little more shock stuff. Sunday night, for example, "High Chaparral" on NBC recorded in detail the scene of a man with a broken leg having it set without anesthetics. This included closeups of his face wreathed in pain and of the damaged leg— all in living color.

This proved painful to the squeamish viewer, and the logical move was to CBS for "Mission: Impossible." There one found that, for no imperceptible demands from the plot, bats were deliberately unleashed in the bedroom of a sleeping couple.

The result was, of course, screams of horror and much running around. After sufficient time had elapsed, the disturbance was used to cover the kidnaping of the woman while her frightened husband was still brushing bats out of his hair.

If the nefarious villains of this piece had dreamed up this improbable diversionary tactic it would have been bad enough, but in this case the clever scheme was hatched by the white hats of the series.

Earlier in the day in a network broadcast of a irofessional football game, two players were knocked out in a play. In past seasons, it usually seemed that the cameras turned away from injuries in almost unseemly haste, picking up the contretemps only when the injured player was being helped off the field.

In the Sunday broadcast, however, the camera lingered on the two prone figures and seemed to cut away almost reluctantly.

All this was by way of almost ironic contrast to Friday night's NBC special program, "Raymond Burr Visits Vietnam." It was a low key, warm and affectionate report, almost a travelogue, about a nation involved in a war.
